

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

The superintendent's cottage was freshly painted this week.

The domestic science girls were busy canning cherries Tuesday.

Mr. Woods and Orin French were busy making windows for Mr. Bewley's cottage.

Mr. Mann, with the help of his black smith boys made a cellar for his house this week.

Mr. Mudge and his detail spent part of the week making improvements at the dairy barn.

The plumbers are busy working on the steam supply for the kitchen and the boys' home.

The Carpenters were busy this week making screens and a screen door for the superintendent's cottage.

The engineers have already fixed one of the boilers to burn coal in and started to using it Tuesday.

The painters are busy painting the houses, and by the time they get thru, one will think that new buildings had been built.

The carpenters are working on Mr. Bewley's cottage. John Sulky made the sash frames, while Mr. Woods made the window frames.

The dairymen are turning out more butter this year than ever before. They churn three times a week—Monday Thursday and Saturday.

The cylinder of the small engine has been taken to Salem to be bored out. They have been using the big engine night and day while the small one is being fixed.

After the small engine is fixed, the cylinder of the big engine will also be bored out.

Mr. Westly and Hulden replaced the climbing rose bushes back on to the various buildings after the painting was done.

Gordon Hobucket and Ben Wilcox folded and mailed the American on Friday and Gordon also printed the program for the Sunday school Convention.

The girls of the graduating class worked in the domestic science on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Dora Gray and Sarah Pierce worked on Tuesday, and the whole class on Wednesday, while Josie Peole and Nora Van Pelt worked on Thursday.

We are more than pleased to see the passing of the Band uniforms. And with unbound thanks to the office for the timely help furnished by Miss Skipton and her able assistants, it enabled us to see the finish of a task earlier than expected. This leaves us in a position to take up the order for the making of the suits for the graduating class which we are now engaged in, and can report a favorable progress upon. The Tailor shop as a unit, unites in a note of thanks to Miss Skipton and her able assistants for help furnished in furnishing the Band uniforms.
