

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

The carpenters have been working all day in order to catch up with their work.

Mr. Woods made some fancy sashes for Mr. Campbell's cottage.

The old printing office is being moved from its former position back to a place in line with Mr. Bewley's cottage.

Mr. Mann has his blacksmiths working in the hayfield helping the farmers and dairymen.

The dairymen have been putting up hay in the cow barn which is now full and they have a stack of 30 tons to be baled and brought up later.

The trousers of the graduating suits have all been finished and the coats will soon be completed.

Several of the boys were obliged to haul bran Tuesday evening after supper and seemed to enjoy the work the way they sang.

The big engine in the power house is being fixed up.

Michel Wilson and Geo. Williams together made a pair of trousers in four hours.

Ast. Supt. Campbell who is with the band and ball team at the Chautauqua sent back to Chemawa for some salts, quinine, etc. for the party. Who would have use of these while having such a good time?

The "Marconi Wireless" agents have been elbowing one another at Chemawa considerably this week. Did you get any stock?

Mrs. Teabo is on the employes' building roof graden during Mr. Teabo's absence to Gladstone Park.

Gorden Hobucket is working with a party that is surveying a route for another car line between Salem and Portland.

Mr. Westley is already supplying the kitchen with new potatoes from the school garden.

Mr. Swartz and a force of boys are getting the lawns, roses and shrubbery into good condition.

Gons is now "aunt Lucy" as a boy has recently come to live at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Pembleton near Niagara Falls, N. Y. Mrs. Pembleton is Harriet Jones who spent two years with her sister at Chemawa.

Most business-like in his correspondence and correct in his receipts and reports is Peter Seltice of the United States Indian school at Chemawa. He is sending in good reports of business too. Some of his subscribers are sending The Journal to points in Alaska.

Last year's contestant, John Benson, of the Chemawa Indian school, made a fine record in the scholarship contest and received a $100 scholarship. Peter Seltice bids fair to do as well as Benson did if not better.

It would seem that Salem would respond generously to these Chemawa boys, for Salem benefits very greatly from the Indian school and its students give great profits to the merchants of Salem.
