Be gentle.

We are pleased to note the increase in school spirit at Chemawa.

We would advice the literary societies to shorten their programs and have good, earnest debates at their meetings.

In order to be successfull it is necessary for all to pull together. One balky horse in a team can sometimes hold back stronger than the other three can pull.

Boys and girls should behave as well when their teacher is absent from the room as they do when the teacher is present. Do not be sneaks and take advantage of a teacher's absence.

Boys, when you go to town be sure and have your shoes well blackened and WALK erect. Don't LOUNGE and LOAF about the town. Look like young men who have business to attend to.

Chemawa has ail sorts of vegetables and fruit grown on its splendid farm and we should have a fine healthy crop of boys and girls thriving upon the food nature so liberally provides for us.

The best kind of help is self-help. It is what wins in the long run and it shows the stuff that we are made of. We have in this school a couple of young men who are showing the right spirit and by their individual efforts are working their way honorably through a university course.

The most successful and satisfactory employees in an Indian school are those that enters into the life of the school, whose capabilities and help are not limited to the departments to which they are assigned. The employees who hunt work is the most satisfactory and successful and are the ones who are wanted everywhere.

ENIGMA.

I am composed of 17 letters.
My 2, 11, 4, is used in the laundry.
My 15, 8, 6, 13, 3, we see in the sky at night.
My 4, 16, 5, a honey maker.
My 17, 14, 10, 2, is not hard.
My 15, 7, 1, 8, is after others.
My 9, is the ninth letter in the alphabet.
My whole is what Chemawa is noted for.

The enigma given this week is an easy one. Try to solve it boys and girls.
If you do not know how to work it out your teachers will be glad to help you, for it is an excellent language les-on. If you become interested in these puzzles a new one will be given every week.

Answer to last week's enigma: "A good game of football."
