We are glad to see so many roses in bloom on the north side of 'the girls' building, and hope to have more roses this year than we had last year.—Native American.

Boys and girls—don't you wear a bulldog expression on your faces when your teacher tells you to draw or write something for exhibit. Look pleasant and try your best.—Native American.

The new 10,000-gallon oil tank arrived from Colton last Thursday and was put in place on Friday by Mr. Meairs and his boys. — Sherman Bulletin.

The pupils in room No. 2 think Mr. De Vries gave them a good motto: "If you never do more than you get paid for you will never get paid for more than you do."

Fine Ridge school reports 1650 bu. of potatoes 969 bu. of oats, 150 bu. of wheat 235 bu. speltz besides 20 acres of crow pick. And yet, a few years ago our friends in other states had to Dakota located in the "Great American Desert."—Weekly Review.

A little ice in sight yesterday morning started about two hundred boys to talk of skates. All are wondering whether we will have our usual skating by Thanksgiving.—Weekly Review. [And Ch-mawa still has roses and some home grown strawberries]

Observer Perley reports that there has been 22 inches of rain fall in the seven months. September and October have been unusually dry, and as a result threshing and other fall work is nearly all done.—Weekly Review.[And so called "Webfoot" Oregon has only 40 inches the entire year.]

Warm Spring Items

We are glad to receive such bright cheery letters from James Smith and Davis Miller who have left us this year for Chemawa. Both boys are very happy and very much interested in their new school.

We were glad to have had Paul Queachpaima with us for a visit one day this week.

Pearl Pipeshere is very proud of the fact that she made her pretty new dress all by herself. Miss Staiger thinks Pearl is going to make a star dressmaking girl.

The employees had a sheet-and-pillowcase party on Hallowe'en, and Miss Collins says we may dress up in sheets and pillowcases and mask at our next social. Won't we have fun, tho

The girls of company A were invited to a party at Miss Montgomery's one evening last week and what a jolly time they did have.

Charlie Jackson insists that altho the girls drill every night they still march like sheep. Oh! Charlie you bad boy! We'll get even with you yet.

The girls are greatly enjoying their hayrides behind Mr. Tiffany's four mule team. Mr. Tiffany tells them to give their school yell when he wants the mules to go fast, and now they do—make the hills and woods ring with their:

Rah! Rah! Rah! Reh! R h! R - !
We are the joiest crowd that you ever did see!
Yeh Hurr! Yeh Hurr! Hurrah!!!
