The Junior class will begin their quarterly examination Monday.

We are all glad to see such fine weather at the present time.

The blacksmiths are busy fixing faucets in the small girls' home.

We hope Alex Moran will soon be in the third grade. Study hard Alex.

We are glad to see Mrs. Bewley well and back in the mess kitchen again.

We all enjoyed our Christmas vacation and are ready for a good new start.

The members of the mandolin club are glad to have Ida Johnson join them.

Allan Madison is teaching Miss Skipton and Alice Chalcraft to do bead work.

Mr. Blodgett and a force of boys are repairing the road back of the power house.

Caroline Wright made a very pretty lace handkerchief last week for one of her friends.

We are all glad to see Orin French back at school again. He is in the eight grade.

The entertainment given by the Nesika Club was enjoyed by all who were present.

We were glad that school has commenced again so that we can get to work on our lessons.

Beginning with the new year, we should all make good resolutions and carry them out.

Mr. Smith and a force of boys have been busy for the past week putting up more outside lights.

George Horne, who has been working in the blacksmith shop for a short time, is progressing nicely.

Martha LeClair is taking great interest in her violin lessons since they have a new instructor.

Gabriel Peter and Abraham Bredell are the most polite boys of the afternoon division of the third grade.

I am glad that I am in Oregon where there is no snow, for if I was in Washington I would freeze to death.

We are all glad to welcome the four new boys and one girl that came into the third grade Friday morning.

We hear that Miss Johnston has taken a claim in New Mexico, where she is preparing to make her future home.

Wm. Bressette is now working in the power house. He is fireman at night and the coal passer is Thomas Andrews.

Ida Johnson has joined the String Instruments Club; she will play the violin. Miss Brown has also joined.
