

LOCALS

Harry Holt is now living at Toppenish, being employed as book-keeper by the St. Paul and Tacoma Lumber Co. He was located at Ritzville, being employed by the same Company but was transferred to the head office.

Fred Holt is happily married and living on his ranch near Toppenish. He is prosperous and has a bright baby girl about a year old.

The Brotherhood of Owls of Tekoa, Wash., installed their officers for the ensuing year. Among the officers of the order who were installed was Charles Payne, Warden.

Mr. Campbell saw Mary Tico, who lives near Toppenish, and was a pupil of Chemawa in the early '90s. She is now Mrs. Mary Lyndes and has a daughter large enough to send to Chemawa.

The Christmas number of "The Messenger" came to our table a few days ago and proved of unusual interest. The cover was "done in colors" and many excellent half-tones on separate sheets were "nested" among the leaves.

The carpenters are hard at work on the new gymnasium, and if the weather continues to be fine they will soon have the roof finished.

Peter Casey is visiting Chemawa. His old acquaintances are glad to see him again.

William Watkins, Eugene Williams, Thomas McCully, and John Peazzonni, went to Tacoma last week to attend Mr. Brewer's funeral.

James Olney has joined the band again.

Mr. Cooper and his force of boys will soon have the sidewalk completed between the kitchen and the dairyhouse.

Miss Irene Campbell entertained some of her Chemawa friends on Saturday evening.

Mr. Chalcraft returned from Tacoma on Sunday night.

Mr. Brewer's life has not been in vain; his noble example is felt by hundreds of Indian youths all over the West. His work will endure forever.

"And is he dead whose glorious mind
Lifts thine on high?
To live in hearts we leave behind
Is not to die."

Boys, guard your tongues. A wicked, blasphemous tongue corrupts many an innocent boy.

Allah Madison does beautiful bead work. She knows many of the real Indian patterns.

The phonograph concert on Monday evening was particularly pleasing to James McMann. He enjoyed every moment of it.

The bluebirds and meadow larks are here in full force. They have the best orchestra on the grounds.

AN ILLUSTRATED LECTURE.

Prof. Tillman of Willamette University is to lecture in the Chapel on Monday evening, Jan. 27. He will lecture on "Our Snow Peaks" and show pictures of Mt. Hood, Mt. Baker, Mt. Rainier, Mt. Adams, Mt. St. Helens, Mt. Jefferson and Mt. Shasta. He will also show pictures of several animals that used to live on earth, but are now extinct, and other interesting views. The admission will be ten cents. Every student should see these pictures. Tickets can be had at the office. There will be over 100 views.
