

ELSEWHERE

The pomegranate hedges showed a tinge of red on March 1st, and on the same date the bees were buzzing about the buds on the ash trees. The cottonwoods are in full leaf.—Native American.

The Oglala Light which is printed at the Oglala Boarding School, Pine Ridge, South Dakota, comes to us very much improved in typographical appearance. It contains interesting local news.—Editor.

The mandolin club gave a very enjoyable party at the dining hall Monday evening. About fifty couples were present and the fore part of the evening was spent in social intercourse and dancing, later a very nice light lunch was served.—Weekly Review.

He that hath money and refuseth to subscribe for the School paper, but looketh over his neighbor's back to behold the contents thereof, is like unto a donkey, who, having a mangerful of straw, nevertheless nibbleth that of his companion and then brayeth loudly with brutish glee.—The Arrow.

The new choir is progressing finely and the anthems rendered on both last Sunday and the Sunday before, did the members credit. The choir was recently reorganized so as not to include members of band, orchestra and mandolin club, and it is a surprise to many that the new members are doing so well.—Weekly Review.

We understand that there are ladies in the school service who wish to be transferred to the Philippine school service, but who have been officially informed that unless they have affiances or sweet-hearts there, their requests can not be considered. Now the matrimonial department of the Review has the addresses of several desirable gentleman, now in the islands, and will cheerfully assist in getting all parties into communication.—Weekly Review.

While the various classes of girls in the domestic science cooking school at Sherman secure training in the manufacture of fancy articles, yet their training in the more important every-day cooking is not neglected, for Miss Miller is very practical and manages her department so that her pupils are given thorough instruction in home, all-round cooking. The three meals each day are cooked and served by the classes, while a course dinner is prepared and served each day in addition for invited pupil guests.—Sherman Bulletin.

There are sixteen married men among the employes with families at Sherman, and all of them, with two exceptions, have children and other attaches in their families. With such a large number of persons not connected with the school on the grounds it would seem that no little harmful gossip and mischiefmaking would be going on, but such is not the case at Sherman. The wives and families attend strictly to their own affairs yet they lend a helpful and loyal interest to doings of the school which is quite commendable. Our employes and attaches are not given to listening to harmful gossip nor passing it on.—Sherman Bulletin.

---

Atheism is rather in the life than in the heart of man.—Bacon.

The man who lays his hand upon a woman, save in the way of kindness, is a wretch whom 'twere gross flattery to name a coward.—Tobin.