

 INDUSTRIAL NOTES

Hazel Picard is now working in the sewing room.—A. P.

Christina Boswell is now working in the dining hall.—J. J.

The painters have painted two wagons this week and are now ready to stripe them.

John Smikes who was Janitor for some time is now working on the garden detail.

The painters will soon be painting the roofs of the different buildings.—H. W. J.

The plumbers and engineers fixed up the steam and water pipes at the laundry last week.

Miss Brown has the spring uniforms well under way and the girls are getting along nicely.

Matilda John made some very nice biscuits in the Domestic Science last week.—V. C.

Grover Colby is now busy preparing the porch and steps at the boys' gymnasium.

Robert Gregory who was working in the power house is going to work in the tailor shop.—J. M.

Annie Evans made some nice potato soup in the Domestic Science Monday morning.—M. C.

The dress makers are making sheets and pillow cases in the large girls sewing room. B. S.

The repair boys in the engineering department are painting the boiler fronts and the pumps, which makes the shop look clean.—M. S.

The harnessmakers are sorry because Mr. Farrow is going to leave Chemawa.

Maggie Wynaco is making herself a pretty pink dress for Easter.—R. S.

Mrs. Thiesz and her floor girls are out making flower gardens all the spare time they have.—H. D.

Mike Telkia says he likes to work in the baker shop and he likes Mr. Teabo as an instructor.—W. F.

Elma Eades made some very nice little cookies in the domestic science and they were very nice. J.J.

A variety of things are being made in the sewing room and Miss Brown seems to be pleased with her girls.

Andrew Bettles is making a suit of clothes in the tailor shop for himself and his work is very neat.—L. R.

Walter Haight has resumed his old position at the carpenter's bench with the determination of excelling all who are before him.

The blacksmiths say that they have the painters "a moving now" painting wagons which are turned over to them by the blacksmiths.

Alex Covington and Harvey Ashue fixed the doors, slats, windows, etc., in the laundry, which the ladies of that department greatly appreciated.

The blacksmiths are busy making wagons. They will work in the wagon shop for two weeks and then two weeks in the blacksmith shop and then return to the wagon shop.

The blacksmiths who have been in the wagon shop for the last two weeks are now back in the blacksmith shop and they all seem to enjoy working under Mr. Henschell, our new wagon-maker.