CHEMAWA vs. O. A. C.

The two games played with O. A. C. on the 10th and 11th broke even. Chemawa captured the first game by the score of 4 to 3 while the O. A. C. boys won the second by the score of 3 to 2. Both teams were evenly matched, and played good ball throughout. Chemawa was a little crippled in the second game on account of the absence of Merl Poland, who had to go to play with Woodburn. In the second game Casey pitched a good game. Chemawa will play a returned game at Corvallis. Following is the line up:

SOCIETIES

EXCELSIORS PARTY.

The Excelsior Literary Society gave a party last Friday evening to their friends, and some employes. The young men of the O. A. C. baseball team were also invited. The earlier part of the evening was spent in playing games of different kinds which were greatly enjoyed by the participants. After the games had been indulged in for about two hours the party broke up and retired to their different quarters.

RELIANCE PARTY.

The members of the Reliance Literary Society gave a party Tuesday evening to their lady friends and a few employes. A short program was rendered, which was as follows: Opening Address, Paschal George; Recitation, George Baker; Song by four boys; Riddles, Frank Cox; Song, Paschal George; Recitation, Alvin Pollock; Riddles, Charles Stensgar.

After the musical and literary program lemonade was served and games were played until about 10 o'clock, when luncheon was served. The lights were turned down, giving us warning to depart, but before doing so Walter McGibbons gave us a closing address. We then departed to our respective quarters after many a cheery goodnight.

NONPAREIL

The Nonpareil Literary Society held their last meeting for this school term Tuesday evening and although we did not prove very successful in the serial debates we are, as yet, enthusiastic in all our undertakings. As is always the case with such organizations in the outside world, certain members were proved somewhat backward, but through the efforts of some of the leading members
