Cleveland Arranging to Entertain Indian Teachers.

Every teacher and employee in the Indian Service whose duty touches the education of the Indian should make every possible effort to attend the Indian Teachers' Institute, to be held at Cleveland, Ohio, June 29 to July 3.

Men and women who have closely allied themselves with the development and training of children will give valuable talks. The close personal association of teachers from widely separated districts will be helpful to all.

The preservation of tribal music and arts will be given a prominent place, and practical lines will be outlined on how best to accomplish this object. The program of the National Educational Association is an attractive one, and their meetings will be instructive to Indian Teachers.

Cleveland is an educational center, having thirty colleges and technical schools, besides eight high schools and one hundred and fifty grammar and private schools. Teachers attending the convention will have an opportunity of visiting the summer and normal sessions of many of these colleges and technical schools.

The Local Executive Committee of the F. R. A. is leaving nothing undone to insure those attending the convention an enjoyable and interesting time during their stay. This committee will arrange for comfortable quarters at reasonable rates upon request. Those Indian teachers who desire to secure accommodation in advance should write to Mr. William G. Rose, Local Executive Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Cleveland, Ohio, stating the date they expect to arrive, probable length of time they will remain, and about the rate they wish to pay. Comfortable accommodations, including meals, can be obtained at rates ranging from $1 to $3 per day, and at corresponding rates per week. The headquarters for the Department of Indian Education will be at the Euclid Hotel.

In previous years all trunk lines offered special transportation rates, consisting of one fare and a half for the round trip, with stopover privileges, and it is expected that the same practice will prevail during the Cleveland Institute.
