

CUTTING TABLE CLIPPINGS.

It is with much pleasure that the tailor shop can report upon the progress of some of its apprentices. Were we to fall heir to a very large legacy it would not please us as well to tell of it as it does to tell of the progress of our coat and trouser makers that are to be.

Of course Harry Joe and Chester Mecum are still in the race for a full course in coat making and coat cutting, and some day our hopes will be fully realized by reading the signs of the times:

HARRY JOE
Merchant Tailor

also

CHESTER MECUM
Merchant Tailor

But there are others who are making a reputation for themselves by an honest and earnest endeavor to excel in what they undertake to do. And this quality is evidenced by the results from the hands of Milton Godowa.

This boy is a comer and it need not surprise his friends to hear of him holding forth at the cutting table preparing the work for himself and others to make on or before Christmas, 1908. He has shown that same stick-to-it-iveness at his trade that he displayed in trying to learn to play the cornet. He kept pegging away and today he is an easy trouser maker, and please let me tell the boys of Chemawa that, for the time he has been at this work, he has accomplished wonders, and that is going some.

ITEMS BY THE "DEVIL"

Happening to be a little shy on items the other day we sent our illustrious "devil," Johnnie Service, forth armed with pencil and paper. The following is the result:

Charles Dick says he can do many tricks on the turning bar.

John Darnell is a good hand at catching birds.

Jerry Rees says he can stand on his head any day in the week.

Joe Charles is said to be a good strawberry picker.

The boys have already begun picking strawberries in the country.

We hope Nelse Charles will soon recover from his spell of illness.

George Howard was raking the grass in the school yard last Monday, which is to be hauled to the barn for feed.
