

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

The gymnasium is being floored this week.

The painters started painting the wood shed on Tuesday.

The engineers are putting in a switch board at the power house.

The gardeners have been busy right along hoeing vegetables.

The plumbers repaired the faucets in McBride Hall last Monday.

The farm boys and other helpers are busy this week hauling hay.

The painter boys are now painting the roofs of the bachelors' new cottage.

This week Joaquin Meadows had his first experiance in making an axle.

The cement sidewalk in front of Mr. Campbell's cottage is being repaired this week.

Amos Smoker and Frank Souvigner were assisting on the New Gymnasium last Monday.

Martin Sampson is now finishing a three-inch wagon. He has been working at it right along.

The painters have started to paint the new roof which was put on the employes' new quarters lately.

Ed Ainsworth is again working in the plumber-shop, after assisting the painters to white-wash the Gymnasium.

The wagon makers are kept busy hese days repairing wagons for the farmers around Chemawa.

After doing some repair work in the shop, the wagon makers are now working on the heavy farm wagon.

Eugene Anderson sharpened the saw in the woodshed on Wednesday morning. Wm. Bresette was his assistant.

John Peazzona, Merl Poland and William Friedlander repaired wagon wheels for a farmer one day last week.

Michel Wilson and George Williams were hauling sand this week for the plastering, which is being done in the employes' new quarters.

James Minesinger is fireman on the night shift this week, and Eugene Anderson is engineer, while William Carasco is oiler.

Mr. Swain, with the help of some of the boys, made a cement sidewalk from the commissary to the end of the walk leading to the electric car line.

There are several changes in the engine room. We engineers are glad to have a new switchboard installed. The new switchboard adds to the appearance of our engine room.—J. J. T.

HAD A GOOD TIME

The party given in the Auditorium Friday night to the painters, whitewashers and cement workers was generally attended by those invited.

The evening was spent in the usual way, including a few games by way of variation.

A lunch was served later in the evening, in which all joined and were seemingly satisfied.

Among those present were Supt. Chalcraft and Ass't. Supt. Campbell. Miss Royer and Mrs. Smith chaperoned the party.