OUR GRADUATES

This year Chemawa will send from her fold eleven graduates. Those who have had charge of them during their literary and industrial life at Chemawa put the stamp of approval upon what they have accomplished and within a couple of weeks will see them added to the alumni of the Salem Indian School.

To the graduates we will say that you are now entering upon a new life, a plain of battle, so to speak, where all of your courage and fortitude will be needed. In human life, as in everything else, that which is fittest will survive and succeed. Prove your right to both survive and succeed by resolving that you will. Let no obstacle be too great for you to surmount. Remember that what others less fit than you have accomplished is possible for you.

Another thing which is worthy a place in your minds is the fact that during your life in Chemawa you have made lasting friendships among employes and students. Many have an abiding faith in you and desire that you so conduct yourselves that they will be justified in the pride they feel in your friendship. Do not fail them.

LOCALS

Miss Ethel Parrish left for Portland this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox and Iva are boarding in the mess again.

Mrs. Mary Liphart is taking her annual vacation during July.

Mrs. Rabbi, of Olequa, Wash., was here visiting her sons this week.

Mr. Fickle and his class of boys are out on the hay field in the afternoons.

After working in the hay field, Harry Jones is back to his place in the plumber shop.

Jerry Rees, who has been staying with his mother, returned to his school and work last Wednesday.

Teddy, who has been staying in Miss Troutman's building, has gone over to Mrs. Newcomb's building.

Mrs. Rees, who spent the Fourth here with her children, left for her home Wednesday on the 6 o'clock train.

We are glad to note that Mrs. Swain had a successful operation in the Salem Hospital after staying there couple of weeks.

Mrs. Mary Hay, who was our assistant clerk, resigned June 30, and went to San Bernardino, Cal., to attend a business college.

Wednesday, July 1, 1908, being Mr. Ernest Brewer's twenty-second birthday, upon his arrival home from Salem, at noon, he was the recipient of many tokens of remembrance from his mother and sisters and friends. A sumptuous dinner was served the guests and mirth and good cheer abounded on all sides. The young man gracefully responded to the toasts of his many friends, who were warm in eloquence with well wishes.
