CUTTING TABLE CLIPPINGS

Chemawa, Oregon,
Oct. 1, 1908.

This place and date marks the opening of our fall season in the tailor shop at our training school at Chemawa.

The most noticeable feature this year is the large attendance of apprentices, and another pleasant feature is to see and hear the pleasant expressions of welcome this beginning receives, as it means so much to every boy engaged in this work, particularly to the boys who are members of the senior class in the academic department.

It gives us pleasure to report an attendance this morning, and now at work in this shop, of twenty boys, a sufficient number to enable us to organize and get things running smoothly.

The kitchen force has put up 166 gallons of chow chow for the pupils use.

Pedro Chevio is back in the kitchen again from the hop field and making the hash fly.

CAMPBELL-SEACRIST NUPTIALS.

Well-Known Young People Wed at Holy Trinity Church.

A pretty church wedding was solemnized at Holy Trinity church last evening at 5 o'clock when Miss Ella Seacrist became the bride of Donald P. Campbell. The wedding was quiet, with no guests other than the family and a few intimate friends. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. O. A. Worthing, rector of Holy Trinity church.

The bride was given away by her father, Martin L. Seacrist, and was attended by Miss Irene Campbell, sister of the groom. Herbert Campbell, the brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The bride was beautifully gowned in champagne colored silk, trimmed in blue and gold, with a cream lace picture hat and wearing a turquoise necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaid was gowned in pink chiffon.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the Dutch room at Davenport's to the relatives of the bride and groom. Many beautiful presents were received from friends. They left immediately following the wedding dinner for a short trip in the Coeur d'Alenes.

Mr. Campbell is a well-known Spokane newspaper man, and has been on the editorial staff of the Chronicle for the last several years. The bride is the daughter of Martin L. Seacrist, and has lived in Spokane for a year, previously having been a resident of Alliance, Ohio. —Spokane (Wash.) Spokesman-Review, Sept. 27, 1908.

John Taylor, Joe Carasco, David Graham, Manuel Swanson, Frank Rosenberg and Harry Jones are working on the new partition to the engine room.
