

PUPILS' ITEMS

Wallace Burroughs is shearing sheep.

We are all glad that Hallowe'en is coming.—A. L.

We all enjoyed playing in the rain this morning.—M. P.

Oscar Grant is the smallest boy in the third grade.—P. B.

We are all glad to see the new pupils coming in to school.—L. R.

We are all glad to see Christine Boswell in school once more.—E. P.

Mr. Enright says Ben Bearchild is getting to be a fine tailor.—C. C.

James Finley says that he will try hard to make the second football team.—F. L.

Miss Earlougher is reading us a very nice story about Christopher Columbus.—L. R.

Since the reorganization of the band we have been rehearsing quite a few new pieces of music.

A number of new pupils arrive each day, and we are glad to welcome them into our large family.—D. C.

We were all pleased to hear the lecture which Mr. Cooper gave us last evening for we knew it did us some good.—E. M.

We are all glad to hear that Mamie Curl is coming back to Chemawa.—I. L.

Henry John is doing well in his work in school.—F. M.

The office boys were playing foot-ball Wednesday morning.

We are pleased to have Mr. Goudge with us again Sunday evenings.—S. B.

We are all glad to see Wallace Farrow back at Chemawa to go to school again, and he says he is going to stay until he graduates from Chemawa.

Upon my return from my summer vacation I found a great many pupils who were not here last year and I was pleased to find nearly all of my old friends present.—G. J. W.

Mr. Larsen is now bandmaster and the boys are much pleased with him. John Taylor, one of the bass players, says that Mr. Larsen will have a good band out this winter.—T. F.

Miss Royer and her mother took two of us girls out walking last Sunday afternoon. We enjoyed our walk with them and thought it the best walk we ever had at Chemawa.—B. M.

CUTTING TABLE CLIPPINGS

Since the opening of the fall season of 1908 we can report a most substantial addition to the roster, or rollcall, in the tailor shop. Chief among the "shining lights to be" is Geo Baker, a bright boy who will make his mark in the tailoring world some day for the following reasons: In the fall of 1905 this boy was apprenticed to the tailor, but was removed to perform some other duties assigned him. He now returns to finish his trade and prepare himself for a useful career, knowing of the great benefits to be enjoyed by being skillful with head and hands. Willie Luke, Arthur VanPelt and Louis Towner are also among the new faces to be seen every morning in the tailor shop at 7:30. Now the only condition that separates these boys from a successful life is a constant application doing the things daily that they know how to do to prepare themselves to perform the things well that they can not do today.
