

LOCALS

Mrs. Mann's brother came to see her and her children.

There are new children coming to Chemawa every week.

We have reason to know that Miss Skipton is a splendid candy maker.

Mrs. Bevans from Cartons, Wash., is visiting her children at Chemawa.

The reading room at the small boys' home is being kalsomined and repaired.

Sergeant Thomas Case from C company has been promoted to quarter master for Co A.

Miss Evelyn Woods is among those from Chemawa who attends the Capital Business College in Salem.

Philip Purns, who recently returned from Yakima, Washington, was re-admitted to the band and is playing baritone at present.

Girls recently returned to school are Maud Petite, Christine Victor, and Annie Johnson. Among the girls just admitted to the school are Mamie Smith, Mabel and Cora Picard, Beatrice Guyette, Josephine, Olive and Francis Picard.

The following grades give the salute to the flag every morning and afternoon and do it very well: Seniors, Juniors, eighth, seventh, third and second. The other grades will be prepared to salute the flag and sing America in a few days. Each school session will begin in this manner and the patriotism instilled into the hearts of our pupils will prepare them for good citizenship.

Brevities

Mr. Bowen has nine faithful workers on his detail.

Miss Kattie Brewer is going to the Salem High School.

Mr. Henderson is having an addition built onto his store.

Mr. Smith lined off the football ground Wednesday.

Elmer Sorahan is expected to arrive from California soon.

Mr. Goudge has a large Bible Class every Sunday evening.

The fourth grade pupils are all getting along nicely in their studies.

The whereabouts of the Atlantic fleet is very interesting to the pupils of the fourth grade.

Ernest David trimmed the hedges Wednesday, which gives them a very neat appearance.

Several "Weekly Chemawa Americans" have come to see us of late. They are good little weeklies.—The Bell.

Misses Norah and Hattie Mann, Miss Ella Brewer and Fortunato Jayme are attending the Capital Business College in Salem.

Hannah Holliday is going to work in the sewing room until she finishes her uniform dress. Then she will go to the laundry to work.

R. W. Long is teaching school at Butler, Oregon. He has a large attendance and has one of the best equipped school houses in the state.

Weekly Chemawa American is the first exchange to be received this year. Considering the frequency of the publication and the low subscription price it is a fine paper.—Whims.
