

CUTTING TABLE CLIPPINGS.

The tailor shop is pleased to report a continued activity in all its departments, the alteration department being very busy owing to the large number of new students appearing for fittings in school and uniform clothing. This condition affords us a splendid opportunity of developing our talent in the altering of ill-fitting garments, a branch of the tailoring industry that is a very important one for the reason, that when a garment is wrong in its fitting quality, it requires the best care and workmanship to correct the little faults.

Anybody can make a mistake, but to know the mistake and then to correct it is to show a disposition to excel, and it is only a question of time when a boy who adopts this rule to work or to live by will succeed in whatever he may undertake.

The tailor shop is very proud of the football squad, and well we may be, for the tailor shop is represented by one of our clever trouser makers, and the tailor shop wishes to say that if he can play ball one-half as well as he can tailor then our physical director has a world beater.

Mr. Moran's method of explaining the workings of his department through the help of his apprentices is both new and pleasing and we trust that we may have more and more of such instructive and pleasant evenings during the present school year and hope to see other departments follow in the footsteps of Mr. Moran and his bright and clever assistants.—THE TAILOR SHOP.

SOCIETIES

Uncle Sams.

Twenty-seven members of the Uncle Sams' Literary Society met in the usual place Nov. 5th and rendered an interesting program in which was a debate on the subject, "Resolved, That Fire is more necessary to mankind than water." Then came a business meeting in which it was decided that the monied members (most all) would draw up checks for 40 cents each to raise a fund for giving two parties this year, one in January and the other in April, when it will be "broke time" for most of the little fellows. They expect to raise sufficient funds to invite their lady friends this year. There is room for 20 more members, 50 is the limit. If you want to be an Uncle Sam, apply early.
