

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

BY PUPILS

The porch of the new gymnasium is finished.

Lorette Tillier is making a drawing board for Ralph Allen.

James Smith is making meat boards for the mess kitchen.

The detail has changed at the laundry, kitchen, dining and sewing rooms.

The five sewing machines in the department No. 1 are always in use.

Paul Queahpalma is making wrenches for the different hydrants on the grounds.

James Minesinger and Albert James are running the wood car at the power house.

The carpenters are putting balustrades around the gallery in the new gymnasium.

Walter Miller and Thomas Andrews are the firemen in the power house in the forenoons.

The uniform dresses for the McBride Hall girls are finished. The material used is blue serge.

The stove in the sewing room is a great friend of the girls during the cold weather that is now with us.

Lilly Braden, Ethel Wilson and Elma Eads are the girls who prepare the food for the football boys this week.

Mr. Westley has 1,000 seedling cherry trees which the boys are going to top-graft and set out in the spring.

William Major and Paul Queahpalma repaired a plow for Mr. Westley and received some fine apples for their services.

The curtains made by the tailors for the new Sanitarium are being put in place by James Smith and Lorette Tillier.

The laundry girls have just completed the hard task of doing up window curtains for the small boys' home, Brewer Hall and McBride Hall.

The gardeners are breaking ground back of the school building where four acres of strawberries and two acres of Loganberries are to be set out.

Manuel Swanson, Dennie Harnden, Roderick Murchinson, Elmer Plucker and Philip Moss are on the repair detail at the engineering department.

The dressmakers are kept busy making girls uniforms. They have fifteen more suits to make before they start making the white Indian head waists.

The laundry girls deserve much credit for the neat work they do on the private shirts that are sent to the laundry every week. The boys appreciate the interest that is taken and are willing to return the favors by repairing shoes, making picture frames or other work that can be done in the shops.

LOCALS

Miss Irene Campbell went to Salem on the 10:40 train last Monday.

Mrs. N. J. Campdell had a special trip to Portland last Monday on school business.

Mr. Cooper, Henry and Joseph Dillstrom attended the Dairy Convention in Salem last Thursday and Friday. They also attended the "Lion and Mouse" show Thursday evening.