LOCALS

Helen Harnden is making herself a black dress.

We are glad to see Thos. McCully back in the school.

The uniformes for small girls are almost finished.

The gardeners are blasting stumps in the old barn lot.

The second grade received six new pupils this week.

May Evans received a beautiful tea set for Christmas.

Leonard McDaniels is the manager of the wood force team.

Willie Flett reports for work about ten o'clock these fine mornings.

Mrs. and Miss Holmes of Portland are Miss Skipton's visitors this week.

Miss Francis Howard of Salem visited Miss Skipton, Wednesday this week.

The sewing room girls are making bath and face towels for Mitchell Hall.

Grover Olney does all the cooking of beefsteak in the kitchen for the visitors.

Mr. Bowen and his industrial force pulled three stumps out back of the office.

Mrs. Stevens of Portland and Miss Bertha Jennings of Salem visited the Brewers last week.

Miss Agnes Young of Seattle is visiting her niece and nephews, Dolly, Oscar and Tommy Case, this week.

Thomas Powers met with an accident last evening playing basketball and we miss him very much in the kitchen.

The new girls in the sewing room are learning fast in making button holes, and the whole force is improving in the tailoring.

Henry Wilson is the first one to work every morning. He even finds it necessary to come in the window to get there first.

Mrs. K. L. Brewer and Miss Skipton are making fancy candies this week. A visit to the kitchen will convince you of a real confectionery.

Some of the second grade are doing very well in reading. We are all glad Happy New Year is here. We all hope to have a good time.

When I came to Chemawa I hardly liked it at first but the idea soon faded away and now I am learning fast and intend to stay here three years.—S. V.

Miss Skipton is invited to attend the wedding of Miss Eda Bearinger to W. S. Scruggs, both of Portland. Miss Bearinger is known by many here in Chemawa. We wish her many happy years in her future life.

Mr. Ernest Brewer visited the second grade Thursday morning this week. He found two graduates at the desk writing during the spelling session, and he inquired whether they are also in that grade. Don't you know them, Ernest?
