

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT

In our last issue we gave the program of the Christmas entertainment at the school, and it only remains to state that the program was in every way pleasing and appropriate to the occasion. The pupils acquitted themselves with personal distinction and credit to their instructors.

The decorations in the chapel on this occasion were unusually fine. On entering the chapel a tasty arrangement of a profusion of evergreens greeted the eye. Streamers of evergreens draped from the ceiling down across the foreground of the rostrum, while in the center was suspended a magnificent bell-shaped bunch of mistletoe. The windows were all decorated, as were both the north and south entrances of the chapel.

Back of the rostrum were two Scriptural quotations, one reading "Peace on Earth Good Will To Men," and the other "Glory to God in the Highest." Over the south door one was greeted with the welcome words, "Merry Christmas" while looking to the north entrance one was wished "A Happy New Year." Could anything have been nicer or more appropriate to the season? We do not think so.

CUTTING TABLE CLIPPINGS.

The tailor shop is pleased to report having had a very pleasant Christmas holiday. In every way and in every thing good cheer reigned. The Christmas tree gathering was a most eventful affair—the greatest that ever happened in Chemawa to our knowledge. The dinner was enjoyed by the small boys' table in the large dining room where we presided on that occasion.

The result of the football game was a very acceptable Christmas present to Chemawa from our football boys and we are thankful.

We are also pleased to return to our shop again and find the true pleasure to be found in a useful occupation. For this and all other blessings we are thankful.

Hoping that we will close our football season with one more victory, we wish you all A Happy New Year.—THE TAILOR SHOP.

A CHALLENGE.

The blacksmiths will play any one department a game of football for the championship of the school and the losers to furnish an oyster supper for the winning team.
