Wallace Hall arrived at the school on Tuesday evening from Dungeness, Wash.

Matilda John will not be able to speak for the Nonpareil Literary Society on account of illness.

Beginning last Monday daily inspections are made through the various buildings of the school.

Sunday inspection of Mitchell Hall found the building in the best condition of any inspection for a long time.

The Seniors and Juniors and their teacher, Mrs. N. J. Campbell, went to Salem, Wednesday, to attend the Legislature which is now in session.

Misses Nora, Hattie, and Rena Mann went to Woodburn to attend a game of basketball between the Capitol Business College and Woodburn last Saturday night.

Mr. Larsen has discovered by chance a preparation for cleaning the stairways and other wood work of Mitchell Hall and expects to have everything shining in a short time.

The American has just learned that Iva Dodson, formerly a pupil at Chemawa, died on the 23rd of last November at Bellingham, Wash. We regret to be obliged to chronicle such sad news.

The daily inspector found the rooms at Mitchell and Brewer Halls in a very bad condition judging from the reports framed and placed where everyone can read them and see the condition of the rooms.

Hon. John L. Childs, of Crescent City and Judge of Del Norte County, Calif., will arrive some time this week with a party of pupils. The Judge is a good friend of Chemawa and greatly interested in the welfare of the Indians of Del Norte County.

Edward Ainsworth took a petition around among the boys of Mitchell Hall to secure the necessary funds to pay for the stereopticon lecture Sunday evening. The boys cheerfully donated, as the views and the manner in which Mr. Gouge described them were well worth the small sum required to cover the expense.

The American acknowledges the receipt of the "Quileute Independent," published weekly at LaPush, Wash. It is published by the Independent Club of that place and is edited by W. H. Hudson. The editor was a member of last year's graduating class at Chemawa and in consequence there are many friends here at the school who join The American in bespeaking unbounded success for the latest aspirant for journalistic honors. Good luck to the new editor and his paper.

The boys and girls of the Albany High School basketball team, encouraged their respective team to harder and faster playing Saturday by giving several of their school yells during the game. What was wrong with the "five hundred howling Indians" that the Statesman headed an article with after one of our football victories? Not a "war whoop" was heard during the fiercest moments of the conflict. The girls screamed and giggled and the boys never opened their mouths. Get up some yells and be loyal to your basketball teams and school. Surely a few yells could be developed among such a large body of "howlers" as we have, especially among the singers in Mitchell and McBride halls.
