

LOCALS

Ed Teabo is here visiting his brother Joe.

Reuben Saunders visited Mrs. Brewer, Sunday forenoon.

The mixed quartet sang very nicely last Sunday evening.

The relay boys loomed up pretty good in the social last Tuesday.

Daniel Madison, of Detroit, Michigan, entered the school last Saturday.

Miss Fannie Newcomb was out for a ride on her bicycle last Tuesday.

The boys are still drilling in the mornings before breakfast for an appetite.

Some of the boys were busy last Monday hauling plaster from one of the cars.

Eugene Williams is playing the part of trainer in the fifty-mile relay run for Chemawa.

The Bible class gave a little entertainment along with their Bible study last Sunday evening.

The small girls have moved from their building to the old gym. Their building is now being remodded.

The seventh grade were out working in their gardens, playing ball and telling stories last Tuesday forenoon.

Mr. Mann always sees that he has plenty of wood on hand. Here is where Eddie is very useful.

The large tree that stood in the wagon road near the south part of the school was cut down Tuesday morning.

A small shower of rain fell last Monday evening which was much needed by many of the farmers around here.

Our band leader is planning to have another picture of the band taken in order to secure a good cut for a letter head.

Joaquin Meadows made some tools for Mr. Lansing last Tuesday morning. They are for tearing down the small girls' home.

Some of the small boys devote their time to making mits and gloves. They seem to like them better than Stall & Dean's mits.

Mr. George Picard and his sons, Edward and Louis, and Walter Morrisette returned from Eastern Oregon the early part of the week.

The Tigers have added another victory to their record given in another column since its writing. The Unions were the defeated bunch.

When a little rain fell the early part of the week it made the small boys dig up their marbles and get out in the mud and play keeps again.

There was quite a rush around Mr. Smith's office last Tuesday as that was the day for all boys wishing to attend the wrestling match to get permission.

Joe Dillstrom broke his hoe handle while the seniors were making school gardens. We can't say whether he was resting on it or working too hard.

We all enjoyed the sermon last Sunday delivered by Professor Sherwood of Willamette University. His comparison as to why we should grow like a palm tree was excellent.

Tracy Hatch, of Salem, was a visitor to the School Sunday. He had a camera along with him and some of us may look for some pictures of the school from him in a short time.
