

LOCALS

Mrs. Chalcraft spent Monday in Portland.

The boys of the Senior and Junior classes are spoken of as being the neatest and best dressed boys in Chemawa.

Why wasn't Martin Colby at the sociable on Monday night? We saw some one looking for him who had an ice cream ticket all ready for him.

James Smith and Frank Pratrovitch were to run a five-mile race last Tuesday evening for an ice cream ticket. The race was not run, both boys fearing they would get in late for the social.

Do you know the possessor of that melodious voice who stands in one of the halls of Mitchell Hall and yells at its very height the words, "fall in," immediately after each assembly bugle?

The Juniors were the first ones to get their garden planted. Mrs. Campbell placed Orin French in charge and the class went to work very systematically and had everything done in a short time.

Mr. Campbell took a load of carpet rags to the weaver in Salem last Tuesday morning, and at the same time taking with him Amos Smoker, showing him his course which he is to run tomorrow in the Salem-Portland relay race.

Charlie Michel, who has been one of the best janitors ever in charge of the school building, has been relieved of that work as he is busy elsewhere. We are sorry to lose such a good faithful young man as janitor. He could always be depended upon.

We have two new janitors in the school building now. George Gorbet is morning janitor and Frank Felix is afternoon janitor. They are starting off very well and although it is true that a "new broom sweeps clean" we are pretty sure that the school building will be well cared for.

The big Salem-Portland relay race of fifty miles between Chemawa and Portland Y. M. C. A. teams will start promptly at nine o'clock tomorrow morning from the steps of the capitol building at Salem, at which time Governor Benson will deliver into the hands of two competing runners a message to be carried to Mayor Lane at Portland.

Academic

Civil Government is the study that most interests Ralph Allen.

Eugene Williams is one of our most faithful and industrious students. So say the Seniors.

The Seniors are struggling with "Average Accounts." It is not their favorite part of Arithmetic.

Sara Brewer is doing very well with her paifiting lessons. She has received some assistance from Joe Dillstrom.

When is that Senior entertainment coming off? Can't you tell us, Levi? You are the President, we believe.

Margaret Lowry and Belle Dillstrom are doing excellent work in the kindergarten room. They teach our very little boys and girls.

The Juniors are doing very well with their Compound Proportion problems. They have about finished their year's work in mathematics.

Some of the Senior boys are letting the girls get ahead of them in arithmetic. This is rather unusual. We have some boys, however, in the Senior class who are unusually good in mathematics.

The Junior class is very much pleased with their classmate, Amos Smoker, who is showing unusual ability as an athlete. Amos is a good faithful student, also. He never permits athletics to interfere with his class-room work.
