

LOCALS

Tracy Hatch was out from Salem, Saturday.

Willie Ingram was a visitor to the school Friday and Sunday.

We are still looking forward to the Seniors' coming entertainment.

Do you know that you should profit by the small hints in the American?

Do you know that playing ball and wrestling are not allowed around in front of Mitchell Hall?

Mr. LeRoy Gesner, the able and well known violinist of Salem, and Mr. Harry Munson were out Tuesday to attend the band concert.

Mr. Henry Stoudenmeyer and Miss Lily Stege, two well known Salem musicians, were Chemawa visitors Tuesday afternoon.

Last week Mrs. H. E. Mann received a letter from Mrs. George Henschal, who is now living in Kiel, Wis. Mrs. Henschal's letter was dated April 28 and in it the writer stated that it was still snowing and the weather disagreeable in the extreme. Mrs. Henschal states that her heart is in Chemawa and spoke of wanting to come back here. Mr. Henschal is now running a shop of his own in Kiel and besides himself has two men working for him. They desire to be remembered to friends in Chemawa.

"In the first bout of the evening McHenry, 125, lost by two decisions to a man ten pounds heavier than himself. He was forced into this match out of his class owing to the bad condition of Gibson who has been suffering with a sprained ankle."

The above article was taken from the O. A. C. Barometer of May 4. The above statement is far from the truth. McHenry and Smoker tipped the scales together. We had not intended saying anything about it, but Leedy was six pounds heavier than French out of the 158 lb. class. At least, the scales showed the above results at the opera house on the evening of the wrestling.

FINE CONCERT.

The Oregon Agricultural College Military Band, under the direction of Mr. Harry Beard, played a concert in our big gymnasium on Tuesday afternoon. The band numbers 31 instrumentalists, of whom two are soloists, Edwin Woodcock on the slide trombone and J. R. Luper on the monster bass.

The band had the assistance of a soprano singer, Genevieve Baum-Gaskins, who sang with an accompaniment of the band. She well deserved the encore she received as she is superior to the majority of vocalists. Both Messrs. Woodcock and Luper were compelled to respond to encores on their solos.

Mr. Beard directed with his right hand and played solo cornet all the time with his left hand, a very hard thing to do considering the fact that many exceedingly difficult standard works were given. The director has under his baton an organization of which he should be proud as the band is a credit to him and the institution it represents. At present the organization is making a short tour of the Willamette Valley. Later the band will play at the Seattle Exposition.
