

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

BY PUPILS

Eva Klutche is now a floor girl.

Alice Walker is working in the laundry.

Gertrude McCoy is working in the laundry.

Annie Oleson is now working in the laundry.

Willie Lee is getting to be a good carpenter.

Marina Siftsoff is working in the dining room.

Caroline Joseph is now working in the dining room.

Leon Reinkin is now back in the tailor shop again.

Lumina Belleque is working in the small sewing room.

The carpenters are still busy working at the small girls' home.

Elwood Towner makes a good sweeper for the small boys' home.

James Finley is now working in the kitchen. He is a good cook.

The carpenters are through fixing the porch in front of Brewer Hall.

John Brown has joined the painting force and is painting at the old hospital.

Myrtle Wilson is working in the dining hall and she does her work very neatly.

Mamie Smith is now working in the dining hall and she handles her dishes with care.

Nellie Boswell is working in the sewing room. She is making Martha Andy's dress.

CHINESE MARITIME MOTTOES.

John Henry Grey in his "China" tells of the mottoes which decorate a Chinese vessel.

On the masts of the seagoing junks are fastened strips of red paper inscribed with Chinese characters. Some of the mottoes follows:

"From every side of the compass may fair winds blow."

"The mast is as a general commanding 10,000 soldiers"

There is always shrine on board, and here the chinese gods are appealed to."

On the poop a pavilion is built, and over its doorway is a chance for more mottoes.

"May this mast scorn tempests from whatever quarter of the heavens they may come."

"Wherever this ship may sail, grant her a prosperous voyage." Enable us by trading to acquire wealth."

"May the wind not cause angry waters to rise." "May this vessel brave the storms for a hundred years."

The very names of the junks would bring good luck if superstition could weave an actual fortune—Good success, Golden Profits, Never Ending Gains.

LAUNDRY NOTES.

Mrs. Liphart took some girls walking, Sunday.

Mr. Van Tassel and boys did some repairing in the laundry, Friday.

Peter Matt is now working in the laundry. He is a very good boy.

Mrs. Van Tassel took Helen Dillstrom and Violet Berner to town, Saturday.

Mrs. Woods took some girls out for a good long walk last Sunday afternoon.

Ellen Tohet and Ethel Logan did the ironing in the laundry for the Seattle Fair, Friday. They did very nice work.