MR. ENRIGHT'S LECTURE.

On Monday evening Mr. Enright gave the pupils an excellent talk. He referred to the inspiration an employe gets at Chemawa and illustrated and pointed out the advantages which an Indian boy had over the ordinary white apprentice. He referred to the inspiration that he got from the talks of Rev. Mr. Conner, Kash Kash and Dr. Montezuma, all full blooded Indians who had addressed the student body this term. He referred to Mr. Conner's text of "Be ye not weary of well doing," and how the Indian boys can obtain wisdom and strength to provide for their daily needs. He referred to the text of Dr. Montezuma where he compared the beliefs and customs of his people with that of the white man and how through our schools and the mechanical departments, the Indian boy of an up-to-date disposition can obtain wisdom and strength through education and proper living and not from superstitious beliefs.

A boy to thoroughly learn the tailor trade must know how to cut. In Chemawa a boy learns the trade from beginning to the end. He stated that he knew a man in a neighboring city who could not cut as well as a number of the boys in our shop and yet he paid the expenses of a trip back to New York which cost him $100.00 railroad fare; $100.00 tuition, in addition to his board for a six weeks course.

Here the Indian boys have the advantage of this man without the expenditure of a single penny. He referred to the many successes of young men who have left the shop and who are now out in life earning their livelihood by following the trade that they learned at Chemawa.

The lecture was listened so attentively by the student body and was one of the best industrial lectures that has been delivered.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

Our first game will be played tomorrow with Oregon Agricultural College Freshmen. They have a very strong team. The game will be played at Corvallis.

Tomorrow's game will give us a chance to size up our team. The team this year is not as heavy as in former years but they will play fast, snappy ball.

The training table has been started for the football team which will add to their enthusiasm and put some brawn into their make up.

The picture which we print this week is Chemawa's Hospital corps, showing the doctor and the trained nurse and the girl nurse apprentices. These girls have the opportunity of getting a thorough course in nursing. We regret exceedingly to have lost Dr. Lieurance this week, who has been transferred to Crow Agency, but what is Crow's gain is Chemawa's loss. Dr. Fisher, of Salem, is temporarily filling the place until Dr. Lieurance's successor arrives.
