SNOW DROPS

Snow, snowing, snowed.

CAUTION—Keep your feet dry.

Snow balling has been a prominent game among our boys and girls this week.

Chemawa changed her pretty velvety green garment into a pure, soft, white one this week.

The industrial boys have been very busy this week shoveling snow from the sidewalks.

The carriage and wagon shed has been used by the small boys as a skating hall this week.

Mr. Turney said that he had met a severe attack with snow balls when he came out from dinner last Sunday. "I had never seen so many stars till then".

ECHOES FROM THE SLIDING HILL

BOYS

Gee! This is fine.

Gee! This is fun.

Gee! I broke through the ice.

Gee! That was a hard bump.

Gee! Some of those boys like to hobo.

Gee! That went like a lightning.

Gee! I just missed that post about an inch.

Gee! Look at Klubba (Geo. Howard) go.

Gee! There is Snake (John Service) coming with somebody else's sled.

Gee! That sled is a pippin.

Gee! Let me go down once.

Gee! Look at those girls. They are coming to bum us off our sleds.

GIRLS

Oh! May I borrow your sled?

Oh! You are just nice.

Oh! What a stingy boy you are.

Oh! Quit throwing snow balls at me, Curly (George Wilson).

Oh! Try it Skook (Sallie Boswell). It's just fine.

Oh! I'm "skeered".

Oh! Hey there. Look at Feddy (Eleanor Lynch). She is expert.

Oh! Let me ride with you Pig (Henry Darnell).

Oh! Let's go and start another place.

Oh! Look at those horrid boys following us.

Red Wing (Vernie Cliffe), after the boys began coasting on the girls' new place, exclaimed, "On, my! I love sliding, but Oh! you, horrid kids."

Oh! Let us go home.
