Mrs. Campbell is preparing a program for Christmas.

Vernie Cliffe writes to her friends that she is in Seattle with her mother and sister, where she will remain for the present.

The talks given by the Senior Class in the chapel are very much appreciated by the student body and are very helpful to the Seniors.

Dollie Case of the Senior Class spoke to the afternoon division on Monday afternoon. Her subject, "The Home Beautiful," was well treated.

Now comes the Christmas shopping. We hope this pleasant weather will continue so that we may thoroughly enjoy our shopping expeditions.

Mr. Mann, our capable blacksmith, gave one of the best Industrial talks ever heard in our chapel, on Monday evening. He was listened to with the closest attention.

At Teacher's meeting on Monday evening it was decided to give a Christmas entertainment just before Christmas, probably in the evening of the 23rd. This will not interfere with the Xmas tree entertainment which will be on Xmas Eve.

Leon Reinkin, a Chemawa schoolboy and a member of the graduating class of 1909, and an example of the results of the industrial training received at Chemawa, is now working at his trade as a journeyman tailor for the firm of Pierce, The Royal Tailors, Opera House Block, Court Street, Salem, Oregon.

We are having good chapel talks from the teachers. Miss Royer's subject was "The Reclamation Bureau," Miss Gear's subject was "Deep Water-Way for the Mississippi," and Mr. Fickle told us "The Possibilities of the Pacific Northwest." Miss White's talk on "Paper Money" was the last talk. Miss Faris will be the next speaker.

PUPILS' ITEMS.

I am glad that we will have a nice Christmas.

Richard Busby is one of the best boys on Mr. Westley's detail.

The boys and girls are going to town to buy Christmas presents.

Thomas Case is firing this week at the power house and is doing well for his age.

Neva and Annie Souvigner are expecting their grandma from Astoria before Christmas.

Beatrice Guyette is expecting her uncle Elmer Le Chorse in a few days, to spend Christmas with her.

The girls take very much interest in the domestic science and never fail to be there on time or when it's their turn.

The Y.W.C.A. is arranging with the Y.M.C.A. and Branch to hold a joint meeting on Sunday Evening, Dec. 26

Martha Le Claire says she is glad that Mr. Turney is back and the Mandolin Club girls will play the same as usual.

We are now making 655 candy bags in the little sewing room for Christmas, and we are glad that it will soon be here.
