

PUPILS' ITEMS

The Domestic Science is a very nice place to work.

Little Maud McIntyre is Miss Skipton's house-keeper.

The boys went to Salem on Monday to get some Christmas presents.

The girls in the sewing room are making candy bags for Christmas.

The boys were out Tuesday gathering mistletoe to decorate the chapel.

Most of the girls received Xmas cards from Salem on Tuesday morning.

Miss Greaves is teaching her fifth and sixth grade girls how to embroider.

Miss Skipton says that her Christmas detail is the best that she ever had.

Bertha Spencer is expecting her brothers, Lester and Jesse, in a few days.

Josephine Harris and Alvina Smith's guardian was here to visit them Monday.

Isabel and Dorothy Tallot received some pretty baskets from their mother at home.

Miss Evelyn Woods returned last Saturday from her extended vacation in Tillamook.

We are now looking for Santa Claus, we expect him to arrive Friday evening on the 6:30 train.

The Junior Class are glad to have James Smith back to school after he had been in the hospital.

Hannah Holliday went to Salem Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Royer to do her Christmas shopping.

Esther Napolegn entertained two of her friends Sunday evening by singing and playing on her guitar.

Louise and Francis La Bonte went home Monday to spend Christmas and New Years at their home in St. Paul.

I think the boys did remarkably well at Salem last Monday, considering the number that were there during the day.

Mrs. Theisz is very busy this week making preparations for Christmas. Matilda John and Virginia Gorry are her assistants.

Mr. McGill entertained the girls of the small girls' home playing on a violin, while Mr. Luke played the piano and it was enjoyed by all.

Nearly all the boys were sent out in the woods on Tuesday morning to gather ferns, Oregon grape, and fir boughs to decorate the school chapel.

Beatrice Guyette is expecting her uncle, Joe Ghangraw, down here in time for Christmas if he is able to travel, for he has been ill for some time.

During these last few days you may see Millie Friedlander wrapping up her Xmas presents. It looks as though she has taken Santa's place.

Last Monday when we were in town buying our Xmas presents Emily Moss was so loaded with bundles, that she had some of her friends to help her bring her things home.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, and Miss Campbell went to Portland last Friday to do some Christmas shopping. Mr. Campbell also attended business relating to the pupils' Christmas gifts.

This is the school's busy week. All the Matrons and Disciplinarian are marking the presents, which Santa Claus put off the train on Sunday morning while we were attending Sunday School.