LOCALS

The Christmas decorations have been taken down in the chapel.

The Senior class are getting ready for their annual Valentine party which will be held next Monday evening in the gymnasium.

The "Transportation of the United States Mail" was the subject of Miss Dohse's chapel talk. We were all very much interested.

The basketball game on Monday night was unusually interesting. We are proud of our team, which deserves credit for the victory over Ashland's big men.

We are pleased to report that Mrs. N. J. Campbell is now principal teacher, officially, although she has served in that capacity for the past two years, being known as the acting principal teacher.

In the third grade those who averaged one hundred in spelling for the week were: Mary Huff, Caroline Joseph, Chester Smith, Jessie Matthews, Clyde Field, Gabriel Anderson, John Stankus, Tillie Horne, Rosa O'Brien, Jennie O'Brien, Dora Luke, Sallie Beyers, John Crane and Robert Dundas.

CUTTING TABLE CLIPPINGS.

The tailor shop is pleased to say that the following order was received in an official manner a few days ago:

Chemawa, Oregon,

Feb., 7, 1910.

Mr. Campbell: Would it be possible to have made at the tailor shop eight pairs of basketball trousers, white duck? The boys would rather play in them instead of the short trunks now in use. They would add to our appearance on our trip.

Respectfully,

C. E. LARSEN.

Approved, W. P. Campbell.

The tailor shop is pleased with this change from partly nakedness to a better appearance and predicts that our team while on their trip will receive the approval of every audience they perform before, and we go on record as saying that all other schools will surely follow this splendid reform. We owe this reform to the Chemawa printers, who first appeared in long white satin trousers this Fall upon the opening of our inter-school basketball league schedule. The tailor shop quickly followed with a blue serge trouser for basketball costume, then the engineers, and now our fast first team is costumed in a very proper manner. So we hereby offer a vote of thanks to the printers for this good example.

"Dug" Luke and Elmer Dillstrom have commenced to make their first pair of trousers and we know that these boys will continue to persevere in their efforts until they become masters of the task that they now vaguely understand.

John Rainville is temporarily serving as disciplinarian and sergeant in the small boys' detail, and his service has proved so satisfactory that he will continue in that capacity for the present.
