

VALENTINE PARTY.

It is now but a memory, but a most pleasant one—the Valentine party given by the senior and junior classes. This is an annual affair and has come to be looked upon as one of the important social functions of our school life.

The party given Monday evening was certainly memorable in many ways. The party was given in the gymnasium and the decorations were very attractive. Around the entire room red and white bunting was tastily draped; in the center of the west end a large flag was unfurled and pinned upon its folds were numerous hearts; in the east end above the rostrum were hung college pennants while among these hung numerous black and yellow ones bearing the figures '10 and in the center of all hung a large pennant bearing the class motto, "Steadfast and True."

For the entertainment of the guests tables were placed about the room and all sorts of games were indulged in by the young people. In the center of each of the tables large red hearts were fastened and gave an attractive appearance to the table, as may be fancied.

When the refreshment hour arrived the "good things" served were such as would tempt any one. There was such an enormous quantity and variety that the partakers were overwhelmed. Whoever cooked all those cakes and "other things" certainly have reason to be proud of the part they played in the evening's entertainment.

Another feature which has grown to be a custom at these parties was the post office, from which Valentines, only are delivered. The "office" on this occasion did a flourishing business and many hearts weeping blood-red tears were passed out.

Mrs. Campbell has every reason to feel proud of the success of the evening, and thanks are due her and the teachers who assisted her in the preparations and management of the event. Furthermore, a vote of thanks is due the seniors and juniors under whose colors we enjoyed so memorable an evening. At the proper hour all retired to their respective quarters to dream sweet dreams of a happy evening well spent.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The Senate has passed a bill authorizing the sale of the Siletz Indian lands, reserved by the treaty of 1892, approved by Congress in 1894. The bill proposes the sale of the lands by public auction or sealed bids, as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe, the proceeds to be divided among the Indians. Lands containing water power sites are reserved by the provisions of the bill. The Klamath Chamber of Commerce has asked to have the allotments of Klamath Indian lands completed, so that provision may be made for the opening and settlement of the remaining lands.
