Have you a shamrock for St. Patrick's day?

Plan and with determination work your plan.

The debating societies are all doing good work.

Mr. Herbert J. Campbell visited his home for a few days this week.

Harry Jones presided with dignity at the Reliance entertainment on last Friday night.

The excellent order in chapel is to be commended and has been spoken of by many visitors.

Miss Grace Bennett, of Willamette, Oregon, niece of Mr. Mann is a visitor at his home this week.

Violets are blooming everywhere and the girls are wearing great bunches of this beautiful, fragrant flower.

Miss Grear's chapel talk of the "Uses Made of Waste Materials" was one of the most interesting of the series.

Frank Souvigner gave us a very practical talk on Orchards on Friday morning. He was listened to with close attention.

The teachers are reading "The Beast in the Jungle." This is written by Judge Lindsey of Denver and is very interesting.

Maud Powell, the great violinist, played in Salem on Tuesday night and delighted all who were fortunate enough to attend the concert.

Some girls and boys say they can't do arithmetic (especially girls.) What is the matter? Is it too much trouble to think or is there nothing inside of the head to think with? Don't be lazy.

Have you noticed, Mr. Printer, that it is not the highest grades who send in the good items? Some of them write items that are hardly fit for primary pupils. Wake up, boys and girls, and "Use Your Brains."

PUPILS ITEMS.

All of the dining hall girls had a nice walk with Miss Skipton Friday afternoon.

The small girls and some of the larger ones are taking great pleasure in the seesaw on their playground.

Last Sunday evening Mr. Goudge preached on "Pilgrim's Progress". He had moving pictures with his sermon.

Marguerite Desautel made a very pretty necklace of beads for her friend, Jennie Luke, and Jennie thanks her very much.

Miss Grear and Miss Faris chaperoned a couple of girls out for a long walk Sunday evening, which the girls appreciated very much.

Marie LeSieur, Mable John, Callista Rainville and Rena Feliz are making table napkins and stand covers for the domestic science department.

Marie Shaishnikof is one of the neat sewers in the small sewing room; although she came here late in November, she has already learned to make her own gingham dresses.

We look forward to some high-class playing when the "All-Stars" are pitted up against the undefeated "Blacksmiths" basketball team. Captain Clark of the "All-Star" team is confident of victory, and so is Souvigner, captain of the Blacksmiths. The Blacksmiths are determined to go through the series with the percentage of 1000.
