

LOCALS

The Chemawa cattle are now enjoying nice green feed.

Mr. Campbell was in Portland on Tuesday and Wednesday on business.

Mr. Van Tassel and Mr. Meier raised the old pump from the deep well this week.

The season is on. Our first game of baseball will be played tomorrow afternoon against Dallas College.

Two teams and wagons with a number of boys were busy on Tuesday hauling flour from a car on the switch to the bakery.

Violet Bourner left for her home in Pendleton, Ore., on Thursday morning in order to take up an allotment. She will be back next week.

We notice that Mrs. Theisz is going to have a lot of flowers around McBride Hall. One day last week we saw Mr. Campbell digging in the flower beds with a long spoon. We think that he was also helping Mrs. Theisz plant flowers.

Mr. Welfeldt gave the bricks of the power house a good cleaning last week so as to make them the same color as those of the new instruction addition, as a photograph is wanted of it and one could not be obtained unless the color of the bricks were much alike.

Perhaps by the time this issue of the American reaches its readers, a tract of land containing 30 acres lying south of the school which, a few months ago was nothing but stumps, will be cleaned of everything including the larger chips by forces under Messrs. Mann, Smith, Enright, Pugh, Fickle and Cooper.

CUTTING TABLE CLIPPINGS.

The Tailor Shop apprentices are pleased to report their return to the work shop after enjoying their spring outing for three weeks. We can report a very pleasant and profitable experience in which we learned a very valuable lesson of how to clear Western Oregon forest land.

We are thankful to return to our shop full of appreciation for the good that has been done and for the good we hope to do, with our renewed strength obtained through working outside. Everybody is now at work at the same place and we would invite all our friends to call at any time and they will be as welcome as the flowers in May.

This day we are thankful to have our late associate, Alex Cajete, with us again, who is at Chemawa for the purpose of renewing old acquaintances. Alex expects to return to his present place of business in North Yakima, Wash., on or about May 1st or 2nd, to continue work at his trade, merchant tailoring. Chemawa has reason to be proud of this young gentleman from North Yakima, who has gone forth from Chemawa into civil life and associated himself with mechanics midst strange surroundings and made a place for himself in the estimation of his employer and his fellow-workmen. This splendid example of what is possible for a boy to do in the way of preparing himself for a useful life, by accepting the training to be secured at Chemawa, is a further proof that the Indian boy who wins from the start is the boy whose mind is trained in the useful arts and can do things.
