Quite a number of boys had a view of Halley's comet last Saturday morning.

The windows of the dairy barn were repaired this week by Sam John and Francis Kalama.

Bessie Chilouquin, of the class of 1908, is now matron of the Fort Bidwell School, California.

The gardeners planted their sweet corn this week in the field back of the academic building.

Mr. C. A. Park of Salem and Miss White of Jackson Michigan, were Chemawa visitors this week.

Last Saturday evening the first team had a close call to defeat at the hands of the second team. The final score being 8 to 7.

In a letter from Lizzie Frazier of the class of 1907 we learn that she is going to the high school at Etna Mills, California, and then expects to attend the normal, after which she is planning to go to the Philippines to teach.

Louise Murray's friends were very much pleased to see her on Sunday when she dropped in to visit the school. Louise is a member of Chemawa's class of 1908 and is now employed in the dressmaking department in one of the large department stores in Portland.

On Sunday afternoon we enjoyed two band concerts, which were given by the band in the bandstand, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. The day was a delightful one. Many parties of girls took walks into the surrounding woods and country while others found shady nooks and enjoyed the quiet of the day.

Stick-to-it-ive-ness is what counts. The Indian young man never wants to let go until the nail is clinched. The tendency of young men, and for that matter, of young women, too, is to have too much self-assurance. Confidence in one's ability is necessary for success, but there is a difference between confidence and self-assurance.

Supt. Claude C. Coyey of Warm Springs left this week for Washington, D. C., with Tulaux, Albert Kucup, Henry Queahpalma and Ben Wilson of the Warm Springs reserve. They expect to be gone about a month. En route they will stop off at a number of the large cities of the United States. They will look after the Warm Springs affairs while in Washington.

Rev. Edward Marsden of Metlakatla, Alaska, visited the school on last Monday. After visiting the different departments he talked to the student body—a synopsis of his remarks appearing elsewhere—and then at 7 P. M. he met all of the Alaskan boys and girls in the school gymnasium. Mr. Marsden is a very forceful speaker and a faithful worker for the welfare and uplifting of his people.

On Tuesday evening a number of friends and relatives to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dillstrom spent an enjoyable time at their home. It was an informal gathering given in honor of their first wedding anniversary. The earlier part of the evening was spent in games, the feature of these was the "Negro Recollection" game. Mr. Joseph Dillstrom acted in the capacity of center and end men who was very comical. Delicious refreshments were served at a late hour. All wished Mr. and Mrs. Dillstrom happiness and prosperity in the many years to come.
