

of today is that used in connection with printing, which is used in all nations and in all climes. The increased production and lower cost of paper for which the wood pulp is used have spread knowledge and aided in the development of the world as has no other single product of commerce. Without an abundant supply of paper, even the potent printing press would be like a great gun with no ammunition—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

INTER-CLASS MEET.

Last Saturday the annual inter-class meet was held on our athletic field and from the shot that started the mile runners on their run until the last event there was enough excitement for anyone. Considering the time that the boys have been in training for these events they did well and by the time our first track and field meet is held we should be able to give a good account of ourselves.

The surprise of the day was Tom Powers. Who would ever think that Powers could run? By winning the 120-yard hurdles from Francis he proved himself to be in a new class. Good for Tom.

A feature of the meet was the success of the Seventh Grade in winning over the Seniors by one point. No doubt this success was due to the fact that the only girls present were five girls and their teacher from the seventh grade, who showed real class spirit by being present and cheering their classmates on to victory.

By winning the meet with 42 points the Juniors claim the pennant offered for the strongest team.

Amos Smoker secured the greatest number of points, individually, thereby winning the silver medal offered by C. E. Larsen.

The Score by grades: Juniors 42, Seventh 33, Seniors 32, Fourth 16, Sixth 3.

PUPILS' ITEMS

Frank Pratrovich is now working in the blacksmith shop.

Millie Friedlander is working in the hospital kitchen this month.

Callista Rainville is one of the best manglers in the laundry this week.

Genevieve Comer is now working in Miss Brown's sewing room. We all wish her success.

Elmer Sorahan, who had his finger cut off, will soon be able to return to his work in the shop.

The details were changed last Monday and the pupils are pleased with their places of work.

Mr Newmires strawberries are being picked by the girls from the Small Girls' Home and McBride Hall.

The pansies that Miss Royer has in the Eighth Grade room are very pretty and we all admire them very much.

Minerva Mecum is now working with Mrs. Henry at the employes' club and is getting along nicely with her work.

Miss Faris took a number of girls out for a long walk Sunday afternoon; all reported having had a good time.

Orin French is now working in Salem at his trade. We hope he will be successful and gain many new points while he is out.

Caroline Wright is the assistant laundress in the morning and Mrs. Woods says she is a good worker and knows just what to do.

Ella Fleming is now working for Mrs. Campbell, after having worked in the sewing-room for a long time. She is very much pleased with her work there.
