

LOCALS

Jessie Scowlele went to Salem on Wednesday for dental work.

Orin French is now employed in Salem at a blacksmith shop, returning to the school every evening.

The senior and junior classes have finished their final "exams".

Our band was invited to Salem on Decoration Day to furnish music at the parade.

The gardeners are kept busy picking the strawberries, as there are so many this year.

The engineers connected pipes under the kitchen this week to lead the caldrons.

The baseball team journeyed to Dallas on Tuesday and suffered defeat at the hands of Dallas College by the score of 12 to 3.

The Band went to Oak Grove on last Friday. The boys stated it was a nice trip. They also went to Salem Sunday to play for the Woodmen's memorial services.

Extensive improvements have been made in the school kitchen during the last month. The ventilators are now being put up.

Chemawa will have a track meet with Willamette on the 14th of June, which will be a hard meet, as Willamette has a strong team.

The Chemawa boys and girls are in great demand these days by the farmers who have much trouble in getting strawberries pickers.

Nellie Shepard and Alice McPherson left on Friday evening for their home in Alaska accompanied by Miss Troutman and Mrs. Stevenson.

Mr. Cooper, our dairyman, was struck in the back and quite seriously hurt a few days ago by a vicious bull, but in time will fully recover.

Miss Steponeck is acting as small girls matron during the absent of Miss Troutman who accompanied Nellie Shepard and Alice McPherson to their home in Alaska.

Invitations to attend the twentieth commencement exercises of the U. S. Indian Industrial School of Santa Fe, New Mexico, have been received at Chemawa and the courtesy is much appreciated.

Of the industrial training at the Washington Allston School of Boston the master says: "The boys will be trained in the arts and crafts that pertain to home-making and will be made to see that thus they can construct a home for themselves instead of being left hopeless with the thought that without money they cannot have a home. The possibilities are almost legion for the young man, who has grown up and has a little spare time, to be independent. This work teaches the dignity and the true value of labor, that the difference between good and poor living is not a difference of money but of intelligence. The girls are shown how and how not to decorate, to make a simple but effective and comfortable home. Everything is of solid construction; there is no shoddy."—EX.

Supervisor Peairs gave the student body a very instructive talk on Tuesday evening in the chapel.

Mr. Dillstrom, who has had charge of the lawns for the past four months, has returned to Mission Bottom to take care of his farm.