

LOCALS

Mr. Littleman, from Washington state, is visiting his son Leon this week at the school.

The Junior class boys with the assistance of the orderlies cleaned the class room this week.

Mrs. Spencer, mother of Buford, a pupil, and his grandfather, are visitors at the school this week.

Mr. Pugh and Mr. Saunders are very busy getting the campus in good condition for commencement week.

George Howard has made the remarkable record of going through the entire haying season without breaking a mower.

Some of the class room teachers have taken time lately to have their rooms in the school house put in good order for next week.

Some lumber arrived at the school lately and was hauled this week to the old gym where it will be stored away for future use.

An additional shaft was put up this week in the cabinet making department by the apprentices, as there is more machinery to be installed.

Haying was at its best on Tuesday. Some were seen shocking it, others were seen hauling it, while others were seen loading and unloading it.

Ollie and Frances Picard departed a few days ago for their home in Pendleton, Oregon, and their many friends wish them a pleasant vacation.

Miss Lottie Lane, a graduate of Chemawa, was married last week to Mr.

Joseph Dean, at the parsonage of the Puyallup School. Many friends here wish the young people success in every way.

Lieut. Hall has had the battalion out every morning and evening this week, dressed in full uniform, and judging from the present appearance it will make a good showing next week during Commencement.

This year seems to be a record-breaker so far as the farm and garden crops are concerned. Mr. Swartz says that he is hauling the largest and finest crop of hay that Chemawa ever had, and Mr. Westley reports that the apple, pear, prune, blackberry and potato crop will also be large.

After roll call on last Sunday afternoon, Lieut. Hall met all the battalion commissioned and non commissioned officers in his office and gave them a splendid talk, touching mostly on the part they should play in bringing the battalion to a high order of discipline.

Mr. Swartz is very proud of the new double harpoon forks lately put up in the barns. When interviewed by a reporter, he said: "The new rigging is just the thing. It used to take us three quarters of an hour to take in one load while now we do it in ten minutes. A horse was required to pull the other down while one man can pull this one down and without much exertion at that, and one horse pulls a load up now where two were previously required without minding it in the least."
