EXPERIENCE IN A BERRY PATCH

While I was in a berry yard I had quite an experience. It was the first time I ever picked loganberries and I had a good time of it. I worked two weeks in the berry yard and in the morning we would get up early and have breakfast about half after five and after breakfast we would start out to pick berries and work until noon. After a long rest we would go to work until six o'clock and we would eat our supper and some of the boys would go to the river to swim and some to Clear Lake to have a boat ride and fish. Some would play horse shoe and some play ball, go hunting in the woods and other things to have fun or make good use of the time. It was a good outing and I must say I enjoyed it very much, but I am glad to get back to the tailor shop to take up my trade again.

NICK HATCH

LOCALS

Edward Stanger is now teamster for the berrypickers' camp.

The plastering of certain spots in Brewer Hall was finished last week.

The blacksmiths and the engineers finished the work in the well this week.

The hayers had a lay off last Friday afternoon, as the hay was too green to shock.

C. E. Frye and wife attended the funeral of Mrs. Walters of West Salem, Sunday.

John Robinson is back at his work on the farm again after having been ill for a few days.

Eugene Anderson returned last week from the berrypickers' camp where he had been cooking.

A force of small boys under Petroleum Barrett cleaned the yard around Brewer Hall on Saturday morning.

The stump-pulling machine which was lately made in the wagon shop was removed from that department on Saturday to give room for the installation of more machinery.

The Tailor Shop wishes to report meeting Mr. Dan Robinson from Grande Ronde, and with Mr. Robinson visited his son James at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland. This boy was a student at Chemawa and an apprentice in the Tailor Shop where he gave good promise of becoming a success. But (?) he was one of them who did not return, and his father states that when he recovers he will endeavor to return his son to Chemawa again.
