At the conclusion of the students' dinner the employes departed for their various quarters to partake of a Christmas dinner themselves. At the "Mess" a fine dinner, on a scale pleasing to all members of that body, was served. Everything at this hostelry was just right—a real, comfortable, Christmas dinner. The scent of the forest was in the dining-room and good taste as well. Miss Faris, who is at present "Mess" manager, and her various assistants, certainly deserve thanks for their trouble in behalf of others.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Mr. Larsen and his bandmen were in the stand, and, as the day was ideal outside, the program rendered was enjoyed to the fullest. A good program was well rendered. Many thanks to the band.

In the evening the services in chapel were largely in the nature of a song service, but mention should be made of the short speeches of Supt. Chalcraft and Mr. Campbell. Both were appropriate to the occasion and contained food for reflection on the part of the pupils.

Thus ended our Christmas exercises. Memorable they were in every way. Our Christmas was a good one. It will be a pleasant memory for us in years to come.

 LOCALS

Happy New Year!

Fred Yelkas, of Molalla, Oregon, spent his Christmas here at the school.

BORN—At Chemawa, Oregon, December 23, 1910, to Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Smith, a daughter.

Dr. McGaw was with us on Christmas Day and dined with Supt. and Mrs. Chalcraft and family.

It is now quite a while until Christmas, but Oh! the memory of the last one still lingers with us.

Mr. Rainville of Athena, Oregon, was at Chemawa for the holiday season, much to the joy of his daughters.

Peter Casey, an old time pupil, but who is now running a butcher shop in Toledo, Oregon, was here for Christmas.

Mrs. Saunders is still confined to her bed at the Salem hospital, but is slowly regaining her health. She is having a very serious and trying time of it.

Miss Emma Thompson arrived at Chemawa on Christmas Day from the school at Carson, Nevada, and has entered upon her duties as an assistant clerk in the office.

John Sorter, an ex-pupil of Chemawa, spent his Christmas here. At present he is in the employ of the Fargo Orchard Company, located on the Oregon Electric between here and Portland.
