James Evans made a trip to Salem on Monday.

Reggie Downie is taking lessons in penmanship from Harry Jones.

Mrs. Campbell gave an interesting talk in chapel Monday morning.

We are all very glad to see Mrs. Saunders out of the hospital again.

Luther Clements finished his first coat on Tuesday morning in the tailor shop.

George Kross, James Smith have been laying floor in the new lumber shed this week.

Miss Howard from Salem was here Sunday and spent the day with Miss Skipton.

Henry Darnell gave the senior class a very interesting talk about the birds in winter time.

A number of girls went for a long walk Sunday afternoon, chaperoned by Miss Lonsdale and Miss Thompson.

Jessie Logan, Sadie Roberts and Mattie Henry have the best floor in the small girls' home and they are very proud of it.

Lizzette Mason made a delicious lemon pie on Saturday, which she and her friends enjoyed eating for their Sunday dinner.

The sewing room girls finished the serge uniforms last Friday and are now starting on the gingham for the school dresses.

The head nurse has arranged an evening class at the hospital. Every evening about seven o'clock you can see the nurse girls studying.

Inez Brewer is reading a book which she got from the library at McBride Hall called "The Reign of Terror," and she is very much interested in it.

William Dale received a letter from one of his friends at Ketchikan, Alaska, and which stated that the snow was three feet deep on Jan. 20th.

Mrs. Woods gave the laundry girls some instruction on ironing shirts, and now the boys' shirts look quite different and better than they used to look.

Blanche Reed says she is going to be sergeant of the "baby" company of the Small Girls' Home when the detail changes again as she will be a floor girl.

The large sewing room girls have begun making the girls two gingham dresses each for school and are hurrying to get through so as to begin on the white summer dresses.

Mr. Mitchell and his boys have been busy cleaning the lawns of the twigs and pieces of limbs blown onto them from the trees by the severe winds that visited us last week.

Andy Walker, one of our reliable guards of the basketball team, has not been in the last three games on account of a bad knee, but he is now better and some good work is looked for.

Pickering Chalcraft is going in for sports at Willamette University to a reasonable extent and is "making good." The following paragraph in the Willamette Collegian speaks well: "Booth, Lund and Chalcraft were the stars for the winners."
