

THE SCHOOL REPUBLIC IN INDIAN SCHOOLS

courage quibbling and all endeavor to cover the truth or escape justice.

Sec. 3. A teacher should be present at every session of the court to suggest methods of solving the judge's problems, as if they were problems in arithmetic, to point out errors before a decision is reached and to give sanction to the judgment.

Sec. 4. Such penalties as tend to humiliate or make the offender appear ridiculous, should be avoided. The justice should keep in mind the fact that the object of the court is not to punish but to prevent wrong doing in the future.

Sec. 5. No sentence shall be carried into execution before it has been sanctioned by the teacher, principal or superintendent.

CHAPTER V. MISCELLANEOUS.

Section 1. The part of the superintendent, principal and teachers is to recognize; first, that the school democracy is not a machine, but a method by which they may lead and train the pupils in independence of character and co-operation for every good purpose; second, that by the introduction of citizenship in the school, their authority is not affected in the slightest; third, that boys and girls in general are so earnest in their desire for good thought and action, constructive work and right conditions, that the success or failure of the democracy, exactly the same as of all other school work, is dependent wholly upon the maintained interest, respect, tact, and enthusiasm of the teachers and other school authorities.

Sec. 2. A majority of the citizens of the School State, with the consent of the principal of the school, may adopt as amendments to this constitution any features which are contained in any more elaborate constitution which is sanctioned by the same authority that grants the right to adopt this constitution. Any other amendment of this constitution, before it takes effect should be sanctioned by the Supervisor of Civic Training.

Sec. 3. The constitution shall take effect immediately.

CIVIC CREED.

God has made of one blood all nations, and all of us are his children, brothers and sisters. We are citizens and we believe that our Flag stands for service and for co-operation for the good of all the people. We want to be true to our citizenship and will show our love for all mankind by our works.

Our country asks us to live for her, and so to live and so to act that her government may be pure, her officers honest, and every part of her territory
