

BREVITIES.

The orchestra will play an interesting program in chapel tomorrow evening.

On Thursday morning Mr. Enright and his detail mowed the lawn and spaded up the ground around the rose-bushes in front of the industrial building.

Not even a "soap poultice" can draw like a free ice cream social. The Monday evening social was patronized by all—old and young—and was a most enjoyable affair in every way.

Tomorrow our boys will play the fast nine of ball tossers from the Willamette University. Although our boys do not expect to win, Willamette will have to scratch for what they get.

Miss Renner and Miss Hall took a number of girls out for a nice long walk on Sunday afternoon. Maggie Dubray and her chum, Rose Paine, being with the crowd, said they had a very good time.

Mr. Pendergrass, local S. P. Agent, passed Saturday and Sunday at O. A. C., his old "stamping ground." He reports having had a fine visit and states that many improvements are in evidence since he attended the college.

A moving picture machine took pictures of the start and at the finish of the first relay, also at the last station. These pictures, we understand, will be shown at the Ye Liberty Theater in Salem sometime soon.

On Wednesday evening all the pupils of the student body assembled in the chapel for the purpose of organizing two clubs known as the "Amateurs" and the "Big Zs", who are to compete in a field meet during the school commencement week.

Those who attended the meeting held by the Christian Endeavor members, who came out from Salem Sunday afternoon, certainly enjoyed their kindness. We appreciate their help and hope to have a large membership to begin with. The Christian Endeavor will be organized next Sunday.

The Chemawa runners were followed to Portland by two automobiles. The first machine containing the officials, Supt. Chalcraft, Mr. Smith, Mr. Sanders and Mr. Larsen. Alice Chalcraft was an interested passenger. James Minesinger, Byran Stevans, William Bassette and John Hall witnessed the race from the other.

RELIANCE REPORT.

The Reliance Literary Society held its regular meeting in the sixth grade room after the entertainment on Thursday for the purpose of electing its officers, which resulted as follows: Loulin Brewer, president; Burney Wilson, vice-president; Joseph Dunbar, secretary; Paul Kinninook, treasurer; Louis Dan, sergeant-at-arms; and Henry Olsen, reporter. The new officers made a few remarks and took their offices. A motion was then made and seconded for adjournment.—HENRY OLSEN, Reporter.

CARPENTER SHOP NOTES.

The old seats that were used around the grounds have been repaired and are now in the paint shop. When finished they will be very handy this coming warm weather.

Eddie Stanger is making a stenographer's table for use in the office.

Peter Alphas is becoming quite a cabinet maker. He is studying hard and making good progress at this time.
