

LOCALS

A week ago last Monday Mr. Westley's strawberry pickers gathered 542 gallons of berries. That certainly was a lot of berries.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bartram have accepted a transfer to a school in Arizona. They took their departure on Thursday of last week.

Supt. Wadsworth expects his wife and youngest son to join him here at Chemawa about July 4th. They are still at Shoshone, Wy., at present.

Students are going home in considerable numbers now to spend their vacations with relatives and friends, while others are going out to work.

Mr. Conger, a student at the University of Washington, visited at Chemawa during our commencement and was very much interested in what he observed.

Patton Bros. of Salem had a man at Chemawa for two or three days during our commencement. So look out for some fine postcard views of our school.

Mr. Gillett has been spending a part of his annual leave of absence at Corvallis, Oregon, taking a special course in agriculture at the Oregon Agricultural College.

On account of the illness of her mother, Maude Lowry left for her home in Greenville, California, on the evening of June 21st. Maudie is missed by many friends here at the school.

Ernest Brewer came down from his home at Tacoma, Wash., to attend our commencement. He stated that all is going nicely with him. He was compelled to return home on Thursday morning.

During last week we had unusually nasty weather for this season of the year. Thunder, lightning and rain are a great combination in June. It is not so bad in December, but in the "Good Old Summer Time" we do not fancy it a little bit.

Quite a number of students left for their homes in the north on last Sunday evening, some of them going to Alaska. Mrs. Brace was detailed to chaperone the party to Seattle and see that they got on their proper trains and boats.

Many Chemawa people were pleased to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Teabo at the school during commencement. They were both employed here for many years, but left the service not many months ago to their farm in Grande Ronde country. They are both well and getting along nicely.

Berry picking has furnished many of our boys with employment during the past two or three weeks. Many of our farmers and fruit growers have come to depend upon our boys for help in their harvest season, while the lads at the school are equally certain to count on the farmers for a little spending money. This is a case of real reciprocity.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cox paid Chemawa friends a brief visit during our commencement. They were employed here formerly, but since leaving Chemawa have been various places in the service and Mr. Cox was promoted to a superintendency. At present they are out of the service. Their daughter was a member of the June class of graduates at the Monmouth, Oregon, normal school this year.
