What Should a Dairy Cow Produce?

Statistics tell us that the average milk production in the United States is 4021 pounds per cow per year. Yet under better breeding and feeding many cows yield 10,000 pounds, 20,000 pounds, and a few 30,000 pounds and more.

Then, if extra care in selection and breeding, and a better knowledge of feeding can multiply production twice, thrice and even six times, isn't the matter worthy of the utmost attention?

We look at it that way here at the Turner State Bank, and are always glad and ready to assist farmers in procuring or increasing or bettering their herds within practical and profitable limits.

To any one interested in studying live stock breeding and production from the standpoint of results, the Pacific International Livestock Exposition at Portland, November 3 to 10, offers unparalleled opportunities. In the great 10-acre livestock amphitheatre more than 350 head of purebred dairy and beef breeds, sheep, hogs, horses and goats, also 2500 chickens and rabbits will be gathered. This has become the largest and most varied livestock show in America. You will gain a liberal education in stock raising and feeding by attending.

SCHOOL NEWS

School is settling down to the right kind of a hum, it sounds like real work.

Both the boys and the girls have organized glee clubs and under the care of Miss Fuller they are getting a good start toward the desired goal.

Miss Ella Archibald slipped and sprained her ankle quite seriously.

The high school has just received a shipment of laboratory apparatus from Frisco. We were much in need of the apparatus.

Business men—with whom the runabout has always been very popular—are well pleased with the changes embodied in this model.

Always rugged, the car has been made decidedly trimmer and more comfortable.

This result is obtained by raising the radiator and enlarging the cowls, making a decided improvement in looks and providing more leg room.

A well designed top and slanting windshield do their share toward adding a finished, clean-cut appearance.

Make it a point to see the other new models also on display in our show room.

These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

I, G. A. G. MOORE, do hereby certify that the above estimate of expenditures for the year 1922-1923, was prepared by me and that the expenditures and budget allowance for six months of the current year and the expenditures for the three fiscal years next preceding the current year as shown above have been compiled from the records in my charge and are true and correct copies thereof.

G. A. G. MOORE, District Clerk.

Carroll Allenby is on the sick list. Classes are organized in violin and piano. Mrs. Clodfelter was well pleased with the start the violin class made. Both classes are growing in numbers. The Senior class took charge of the opening exercises last Friday and every one is looking ahead to the time when they shall do so again. The student body aroused a goodly amount of pep last Tuesday under the leadership of Mr. Kenneth Gray as yell leader.

Next Sunday will be rally day at the Methodist Sun Day School. Every member of the Sunday school is asked to invite some one who does not go to Sunday School else where to come on that day. An interesting program will be given by the children.

P. C. Fulton, eighth grade Teacher in the Turner school has moved into the Turner Property recently occupied by the Deerfelders.

Several Turner Sportsmen were out after pheasants, Sunday and good luck was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore, were Sun-visitors from Mill City.

Gideon Alexander is working in Portland this week.

Glenn Miller was home from O. A. C. over Sunday.

R. D. Gray, of Salem, was a business visitor in Turner, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver G. Otis, of Mapleton, have rented the R. D. Gray house. Mr. Otis is second truck operator, at the Turner station.

M. E. Church

Sunday evening there was a union service at the M. E. Church. In accordance with the Governors Proclamation, the sermon was on Law Enforcement dealing principally with the prohibition law. Rev. Mr. Pogue pastor of the M. E. church was the speaker.
