

DAIRY THE DAIRY

CREAM SEPARATOR
IMPORTANT MACHINE

To encourage dairymen to adopt methods that will make their cream a little more wholesome and the separator last a little longer, the following advice is given by W. H. Brown, professor of dairying, Manitoba Agricultural College.

(a) The manufacturer's instructions should be read with care and carried out to the limit. Better than anyone else, he understands the direct needs of the machine.

(b) Absolute firmness and levelness of the machine are essential. Failure to secure either means that the bowl will not run true, which defect will cause not only poor separation and loss of fat but injury to the finer adjustments of the spindle, and consequently shorter life of the machine.

(c) The separator must be kept thoroughly oiled with good separator oil, which can be obtained from the separator companies. The dirty oil should be drained out occasionally and a good cleaning with kerosene accomplished. This, in turn, should be drained off and a new supply of good oil added. This makes the machine run easier as well as lengthens its life.

(d) Start the machine slowly and increase the speed gradually until the proper speed, which is indicated on the handle of most separators, has been obtained. This should be maintained steadily throughout the time that the milk is being fed into the bowl. Any carelessness in turning will result, not only in an injury to the machine, but also in unnecessary loss of fat in the skim milk.

(e) Before the milk is turned in, run into the separator enough warm water (110 to 120 degrees F.) to fill the bowl. This prevents the milk from sticking to the bowl parts, thus making washing easier and lessening the loss of fat.

(f) Milk should be clean and warm when fed into the bowl. Every precaution should be taken to prevent dirt getting into the milk. It is wise, however, to make sure that no dirt is in it by using a fine strainer plus four piles of cheesecloth before the milk is put into the supply can.

(g) Have the speed uniform before the milk is turned into the bowl. Open the tap to its full capacity. The float, which serves to regulate the discharge from the supply can, should always be used.

(h) Use a flush. About one quart of warm water or fresh skim milk should be run through the bowl after the whole milk. This flushes the bowl free of any cream that may be clogged in the bowl and thus lessens the loss of fat. Warm water, if used, tends to make washing of the interior parts of the bowl easier.

(i) Allow the speed of the machine to "die down" without applying any brake or pressure. The fact that the bowl runs a long time is proof that it runs smoothly and the machine turns easily. Any effort to stop the bowl is apt to shift the adjustment of the bowl or otherwise put it out of balance, with consequent loss in efficiency.

(j) Wash the separator immediately after use and exercise the strictest care in getting all parts of the machine absolutely clean. It is conceded that improper cleaning of utensils, including pails, cans, separators, etc., is responsible for a big percentage of the bad flavor that develops in milk. Unless care is exercised, the separator offers a good breeding place for those germs that develop the bad flavors.

All milking utensils should receive careful attention. They should not only be thoroughly washed and scalded, but they should also be set out in the open where they can be further sterilized by the direct rays of the sun.

NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the County Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Marion, on the 12th day of November, 1924, duly made, rendered and entered an order as follows:

It is, therefore, ORDERED and ADJUDGED by the Court that on and after Wednesday, the 12th day of November, 1924, hence following and until May 1st, 1925, all county roads of a County of Marion, State of Oregon, which are not paved with hard surface pavement, be subject to the following restriction and maximum load limitation, to-wit: No vehicle shall move over such county roads having a concentrated weight bearing upon the surface of the highway at contact with the wheels of any one axle thereof in excess of the following limit, to-wit: On any vehicle having a total entire width of 30 inches and more than 33 inches the concentrated weight bearing on the surface of the highway at contact with the tread of the two wheels of any one axle of such vehicle shall not exceed the product of the sum of the entire width of two wheels of such axle multiplied by 350. This order shall apply to either motor or horse drawn vehicles.

All persons will therefore observe the foregoing order and govern themselves accordingly.

The time is drawing closer when there will be a linen mill established in Salem. The business men are working solidly to bring this about. That is what it takes to bring this about in any town. Not only the business men but every one interested in any improvement along lines of providing employment for the people who live in these towns. The man who runs a store in a town must have the people to sell his merchandise to. If he is a back and lets the people go away to find work in stead of trying to find means of providing employment for those on whom he is dependant upon for his trade, he is partly to blame if business is lost by people moving away. Turner business men are not at all kind. They already have an organization only one week old but already at the battle front and going to stay there until some facilities for growth and industry has been developed. The average man who lives in a small town for a few years is blinded to the resources that town possesses for developing industry. Many a stranger passing through Turner has been heard to remark about the water power adjacent to town for the development of industry. With the advent of a linen mill in Salem, Turner's chance is here to develop the plant already here for reducing the flax to fiber that is needed for these mills. The flax industry is only one of many industries that might be developed in Turner.

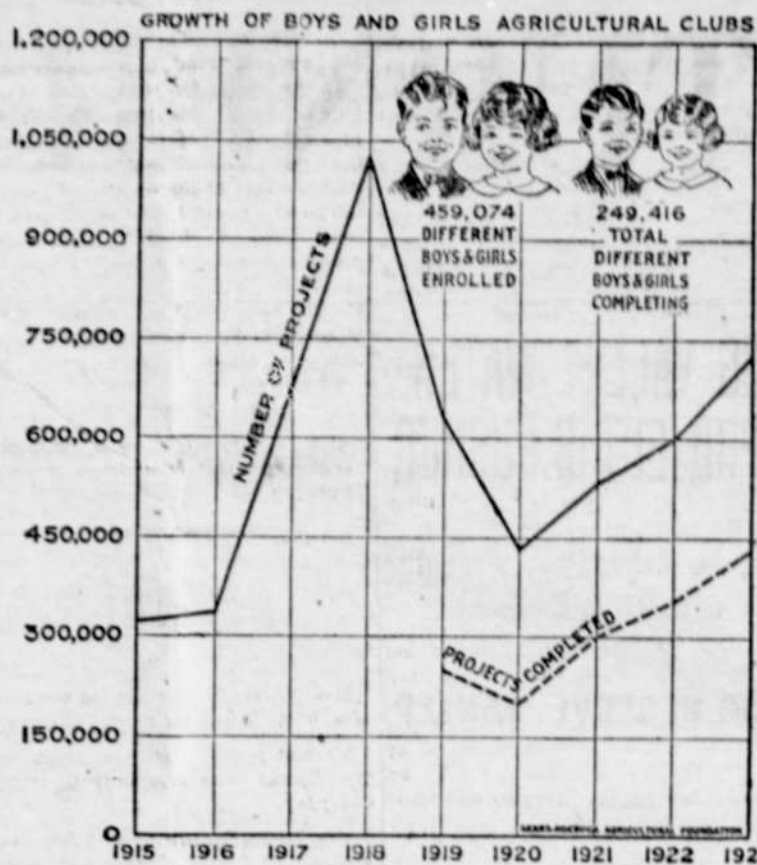

Stage Scrub-Bull Trial at Farm Bureau Meeting
The trial of a scrub bull in which every part of the proceedings—except of course, the prisoner—was taken by boys' and girls' club members, recently occurred at a farm bureau meeting in Lincoln county, Oregon. The event took place during a picnic and was the chief attraction of the day. The bull was found guilty. The 200 spectators rendered an additional verdict, unanimously, that the work of the boys and girls was extremely creditable.

In reporting the event to the United States Department of Agriculture J. R. Beck, county agent of Lincoln county, Oregon, described a scrub-bull exchange plan recently inaugurated. Under this plan the owners of pure bred cattle list their surplus bull crop to scrub-bull owners at a flat price of $30 each if taken by the time the bull calves are six weeks old. The purchaser must agree to butcher his scrub bulls as soon as the pure bred calf is old enough for service.

Cause of Lumpy Milk
The usual cause of a cow giving lumpy milk is the inflammation of that quarter of the udder from which the bad milk comes. Ordinarily this condition will not continue for a very long time. Incomplete milking is often the cause. The application of turpentine and lard, or camphorated lubricant will aid materially in restoring the udder to its normal condition. The administration of epsom salts is also advisable, as the bowels are apt to be sluggish.

Shoves Babe in Window to Reserve Train Seat
New York.—Police of the Long Island railroad are looking for a young man, seemingly too young to be a father, who reserved his seat in a passenger coach at a platform in Jamaica by thrusting a baby through the window, then snatched leisurely behind the crowd clamoring for admission by way of the door.

Junior Farmers Need Club Leaders

That club leadership must be increased properly to train the boys and girls of the nation who decide to remain on farms and become the backbone of American agriculture is shown in a survey of the club work of the junior farmers just completed by Benjamin H. Darrow, director of the boys' and girls' club work of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

According to the report of the Foundation, based on a count by the Department of Agriculture, 722,408 projects were begun in 1923 by 459,074 boys and girls, a number which is less than 6 per cent of the farm youth of the nation of club age. Of these projects 429,746 were completed by 249,416 club members. Girls completing their work outnumber the boys three to two, there being 150,194 girls and 99,222 boys. The report also indicates that 55.6 per cent of the enrolled girls finished their projects, while only 52.9 per cent of the boys completed theirs. The high point reached in 1918, as shown by the accompanying chart, was due to the expansion of club work in connection with the slogan of the day: "Food will win the war." After the crisis was over there was retrenchment and club work suffered.

"Many of the 8,000,000 boys and girls engaged in club work hope to leave the farm," said Darrow, "but 80 per cent of them will remain in the country, experience has shown. All who stay on the farm should have the benefit of the inspiration and training club work affords. If we are to provide this for the junior farmers of the nation, we must rapidly increase the number of county club leaders."

DESOLATE ORPHAN BECOMES CHILD PRODIGY

AZADOUHI PACHALIAN

"Do all the little girls in Armenia dress like you Zadi?" "Oh, my! no, you ought to see how many clothes we don't have." This conversation in a Portland office is typical of the quick wit and ready response of Azadouhi Pachalian, who was brought to America by her foster mother, Mrs. Pearl R. Gannaway, formerly of Medford and Seattle.

"Little Azadouhi is no more lovable nor brighter than the majority of the 8,500 children over whom Dr. Gannaway has medical oversight in Beirut, Syria," states Mrs. Gannaway. "It was her utter helplessness during the six months we fought so hard for her life that endeared her to us so that we felt we could not give her up and I brought her to America to adopt her." In Judge Tallman's court in Seattle the adoption was carried out while she, four and a half years old, solemnly raised her hand and declared, "I adopt you as my mamma."

Azadouhi was the first and only child of a young couple of education and refinement and was born shortly after the armistice was signed and because it was thought that freedom had come she was named Azadouhi (daughter of freedom). But the close of the war did not bring peace to the Near East and during the last three years more than a million people have been rendered homeless. Many of these who are now homeless refugees were three years ago living in modern, steam-heated homes and were sending their children to foreign countries for an education. Azadouhi and her parents were among these exiles. The father was driven into the Turkish army where he was killed. Azadouhi and her mother wandered in the woods from the time she was nine months old until she was a year old when both mother and child were suffering from measles, pneumonia and dysentery.

"We are familiar with suffering and even starvation," states Mrs. Rambo, "before we went to the Near East, for we spent our honeymoon in India in the midst of a great famine where hundreds of children were left at our very doors. With relief money sent from America we gave employment to hundreds of men who were thus able to support their families, and the buildings are in use today as orphanages."

"Our oldest son, Victor, returned a few weeks ago as medical missionary to the very spot where he was born, and he finds that the leaders in the community are the children whom we saved from death twenty-five years ago. With this experience back of us we naturally look for great results from Americans taking care of a hundred thousand children in the Near East."

Why He Named Son Alwin Abe Alexander Abalman

Hammond, Ind.—Sam Abalman christened his first born son Alwin Abe Alexander Abalman, and in explaining his choice said: "The big reason is that four 'A's' stand for aces, and if that boy holds four, no one can beat him. Outside of that, a four-A horse blanket is the best you can buy, and four-A sugar is what every woman wants."

SHERIFF'S NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY ON FORECLOSURE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of an execution duly issued out of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the county of Marion and to me directed on the 13th day of November, 1924, upon a judgment and decree duly rendered, entered of record and docketed in and by said Court on the 6th day of November, 1924, in a certain suit then in said Court pending, wherein Augusta Krueger was plaintiff and R. DAIRY NOTES

Dairy cows do especially well on sweet clover pasture.

Raising good calves properly is one way to build up a good dairy.

A well-developed heifer may be bred younger than one that has not done well. A few months in waiting to give the heifer time to grow is usually well paid for when she freshens.

The external condition of the cow is a most important factor in the production of clean milk, and dirt on the outside of the animal's body is one of the greatest sources of milk contamination.

Abundance of pure air for the dairy cows is fully as important as a full-balanced ration. There may be times when it is impossible to supply the full-balanced ration, but never is it impossible to secure an abundance of pure air.

NOVEMBER 26
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING—
Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! O come, let us sing unto the Lord; let us come before his presence with thanksgiving. For he is our God, and we are the people of his pasture. — Psalm 107: 25; 95: 1, 2, 7.

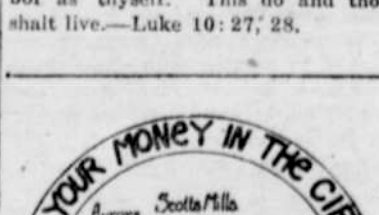

THUS SAITH THE LORD that created thee, O Jacob, an dth that formed thee, O Israel. Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine. — Isaiah 43: 1.

THE SPIRIT OF THE LORD GOD is upon me: because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound.—Isaiah 61: 1.

BEHOLD AT EVENTIDE trouble; and before the morning he is not. This is the portion of them that spoil us, and the lot of them that rob us. — Isaiah 17: 14.

TRUST IN THE LORD with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding.—Proverbs 3:5.

THOU SHALT LOVE THE LORD thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself. This do and thou shalt live.—Luke 10: 27, 28.
