IS THE BOSS IN? QUESTION OFTEN HEARD

Who is the boss, anyway? Why? "Our Customers" of course. And that is just the way we feel about it. We realize that our amazing success in the last five years since we started business would never have been possible without the help of our customers. Our job is to secure the best quality foods and bring them to our patrons at fair prices. This we strive earnestly to do at all times. Evidence of how well we are doing it is strikingly displayed in the list of unusual values given below. We appreciate your approval.

All right go ahead and make me laugh:

TURNER HIGH SCHOOL

(By Doris Hilleary)

Freshmen gave an interesting program Friday morning.

The Turner basketball teams defeated Jefferson in a double header played on the Turner floor.

The play cast is working hard on the high school play "Eyes of Love."

Orban Stout was absent from school Tuesday afternoon because of sickness.

Juniors have ordered their class caps. How's that for pep?

Turner high is going to play Y.M.C.A. and the Turner basketball club with play the State School Friday night. The band will furnish music. The door proceeds will go toward the shower for the gym.

The Biology class are developing a great interest in protozoa, which they are finding in water taken from ponds by the roadside.

The English class are much interested in the contest for the Lincoln medal which is on exhibition at the drug store. Last year a similar medal was won by Ethel Given.

M. E. Church

Attendance at Sunday school last Sunday was again up to the average. We have begun the return trip, in the auto race from San Francisco to New York and return.

Regular preaching services next Sunday both morning and evening. On January 31st, Rev. E. R. Martin, who is associated with the American Sunday school union, will preach for us at 11 o'clock. Those who heard him at the convention will want to hear him again. The Epworth League lesson next Sunday will be the second of the missionary series about Mexico. Rev. C. W. Pogue will be the leader.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

We had a very large attendance last Sunday morning for Sunday school. We invite you to attend next Sunday. We have a promise that the building will be warmer and more comfortable, so be on time. The boys and girls of our Sunday
