THE TURNER TRIBUNE

F. U. Romley, Editor

Issued Every Thursday at Turner, Marion County, Oregon

SUBSCRIPTION $1.25 PER YEAR. Entered at the Postoffice at Turner, Oregon, as second-class matter, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

So far Patterson, Hall and Upton have declared themselves for the nomination for governor. Summing up their qualifications, it is evident that it will be a close race between these three. Unless some others come into the race, it will probably be one of the closest contests witnessed at the Oreal appointed administrator of the estate of Malinda Compton, deceased, and that he has duly qualified as such. All persons having claims against said estate are hereby notified to present the same, duly verified as required by law, at the offices of Guy O. Smith, 403 Salem Bank of Commerce Bldg., in the City of Salem, Marion County, Oregon, within six months from the date of this notice, to wit January 14, 1926. probably be one of the closest contests witnessed at the Oregon primaries for some time.

According to the local indications Steiwer, Crossley and GUY O. SMITH, Clark are the most favored candidates for U. S. senator. The hardest fight will probably be between Steiwer and Crossly. while Stanfield's main hope lays in the chance of enough candidates coming into the field to break up the vote. If Fovernor Pierce decides to make the run on the Democratic ticket, as some believe, he will in all probability be the strongest man they can put up. If nominated, the chances are that he will draw some votes from the other side, but it will not be enough to cause any alarm in the Republican camp.

Last week we stated our views regarding the World Court and the League of Nations regarding the safety of some of our important laws, especially the immigration law. Some of the Internationalist members of Congress have admitted that even our tariff laws will be in danger in the event that the United States joins the World Court. With an influence brought to bear on Congress to force an affirmative vote on the question of the World Court, backed by the millions of a man who came to this country when a mere boy and gained his prosperity on these shores. This man is no less a person than Edward Bok, who was born in Holland and came to this country when but six years old and has come to be one of America's millionaire publishers. He is proving his loyalty to America by trying to get us entangled in European affairs.

"The one who would observe Golden Rule Sunday should, in his imaglike sheep having no shepherd, hiding by day from their enemies, gathering what food they can by night, exposed to the bitter cold of winter or the burning sun of summer, claiming refuge at an American orphanage only to be told there is no room.

"He should see old Hargue strug gling through snows, an orphan grandchild by each hand, with the baby on her back, who finds at night that that baby has frozen to death.

"He should see twelve year old Charlambus struggling along with other deportees bearing his six year old brother to safety, carrying his body, even after he thought the boy was dead. He must see in these two boys not only the symbols of almost countless thousands of children, but he must see in them his own boys. "There is little use to attempt to visualize the vast number, $35,000 orphans, now in American care and the equal or greater number whose helplessness is a claim on American charity, but for whom no provision can be made. When we see our own children comfortable and happy we can think of the same number homeless exiles in the Near East.

"There are few spiritual exercises more fruitful than this, and men and women who honestly attempt to apply the Golden Rule to these other children will not mensure their gifts by pennies, but by dollars, by fives and tens and hundreds and thousands. 'All things therefore whatsoever you would that men should do to you (or to your children if left destitute) do ye to them likewise'."
