SUGAR CONTROVERSY HAS LONG WHISKERS BY NOW

The house ways and means committee is now engaged in the controversy on sugar tariff. It is the real thing in the way of controversy. The sugar controversy had grown whiskers as far back as when Uncle Sam first got the obsession of helping producers by making consumers pay more. Some five years ago, congress made an attempt to retire, make an emolument, or something else pacifying of the controversy. A tariff commission, on neat salary and with authority to recommend tariff changes, was created. It tackled the controversy, all right. By a 3 to 2 vote, it recommended that President Coolidge cut down the duty on raw sugar, which he had congressional authority to do. That was in July, 1924. No cut.

Now appears before congress beet sugar men, cane sugar men and Cuban sugar men, with the same old controversy, stripped and gloved for a fight to a finish, temporary finish, that is.

Heaven alone knows where the controversy will land the eaters of sugar, this time; but to the ordinary dumbbell in staccato it does seem strange that the controversy should demand weeks of wrangling in congress, when there are a commission and president able to repair duties while you wait. What's the tariff commission for? However, such question is pertinent in respect of a lot of other commissions, boards etc.

No monument has yet been erected to that superb patriot who, in a national political convention, shouted, "What are we here for but the spoils?" He didn't even get a job on an emasculated commission.—Portland Daily News.

Against the theory of old age pensions are no arguments. Several western states are talking about the system; in time it will go into effect.

We already have a pension for middle age, in the workmen's compensation law—and there is no argument about that law. It is a good one.

In effect, the compensation law provides insurance for workmen when they are unable, by reason of accident, to work. Then why isn't it fair to provide the same insurance for those unable, by reason of AGE, to work?

The state provides insurance for producers because it wants to get them back into production. It neglects the aged, because they never will produce again. That is a hard fact—and that every citizen ought to feel ashamed of.

It is easy to say that workers should be thrifty and be self-supporting. They should not have accidents, or become sick, maybe. But they do. We're dealing with facts and not theories.

There are no arguments against old age pension—except selfishness.—Portland Daily News.

SURE IS TOUGH

Deeper will grow that sad worn expression always upon the face of Secretary Mellon and deeper will grow the popular wonder as to why a man with all his millions hangs on to his job.

The Anti-Saloon league is now "reading the riot act" to Mr. Mellon, who does not endorse the proposition to add $25,000,000 to the enforcement funds. "It will be difficult," proclaims the league, "for the average citizen to believe that there is much zeal or eagerness on the part of the secretary of the treasury to secure adequate enforcement, if he refuses this opportunity to develop and carry out an adequate program."

Poor Andy. He is under the economy eye of President Coolidge, he has to prevent overstepping of the budget, he has dear friends in the business of making alcohol and he has to stand building by the Anti-Saloon league. It is a job for a prizefighter, not for a man of refinement and millions.—Portland Daily News.

DINNER PARTY AT BEAR HOME

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bear entertained with a dinner Wednesday evening. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. J. Barber, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Given, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. J. Denhem, Mr. and Mrs. U. Denyer, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Fuhston, Mr. and Mrs. George Clymer, Mr. and Mrs. D. Herrling, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bear, Miss Ethel Given, L. Larson, Master Varnal Denhem, Mrs. A. L. Bear, Kenneth and Willard Bear and the hostess, Miss Giv-furnished music for the occasion. The dinner was furnished and prepared by J. Hoyt and S. B. Trotter, of Salem.—Oregon Statesman.

MULTNOMA A. A. C. HOLD BOXING MATCH

PORTLAND, Jan.—(Special) The Pacific Coast A. A. U. boxing championships will be held in Portland Monday and Tuesday nights, February 25 and 26, under auspices of The Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club. The two night's fistic classic will be staged in the Portland Armory. James J. Richardson, manager of the club, expects at least 60 entries from eleven western states which make up the five amateur districts comprising Pacific Coast territory. Entry blanks are being mailed to all colleges, universities, high schools, recognized amateur athletic clubs and unattached boxers on the Pacific Coast. Any boxer who has never participated in a bout for financial gain will be permitted to enter the tournament. Entry blanks may be secured from James J. Richardson, care Multnomah Club, Portland.

It pays to buy the best bee supplies, says the bee specialist of the Oregon experiment station. This is especially important when purchasing hive bodies and frames. A metal telescope cover is superior to any other, particularly in the damper sections of the northwest. Supplies ordered now will be ready for spring use.

SHERIFF'S NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY ON FORECLOSURE

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of an execution duly issued out of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Marion, and as so directed on the 13th day of January, 1929, upon a judgment and decree rendered, entered of record and docketed in and by said court on the 7th day of December, 1928, in a certain case then in said court pending wherein C. ## FAREWELL PARTY FOR TOWNSENDS

A large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Townsend for a surprise party prior to their departure for their new home near Lebanon. It was a complete surprise to the Townsends. They have spent several years in this community and have many friends who are sorry to have them leave. The evening was spent with game and various other sorts of entertainment when at a late hour in the evening refreshments were served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Theissen, Mr. and Mrs. Bert McKay and daughter Marjorie, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Roberts and children Dean, Barbara and Alice, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cook and daughter Gertrude, Messames Gayette Barnett, Martina Barnett, Nellie Hamilton, Loretta Rowley, The Misses Lucile Riches, Frankie Porter, Thelma Barnett, and Mildred Schifferer and Thomas Swales.

F. W. MOURER DIES AT CRESWELL

F. W. Mourer, a farmer resident of the Pleasant Point district, passed away at his home near Creswell, Oregon, Tuesday January 22. His death was caused by pneumonia. He had recently undergone an operation and was getting along nicely but was not strong enough to overcome the effects of the last sickness. Mr. Mourer had many friends in this section who extend their sympathies to the bereaved family. Besides the widow he leaves three boys Floyd and a younger brother who are at home and Albert of Salem.

WARNING SIGNAL AT CROSSINGS

According to Mr. Cutsforth, a Southern Pacific official, who was in Turner last week, an automatic crossing signal will be placed at the depot crossing this week. This crossing is dangerous especially when approached from the east as the view is obstructed by the depot and the Oregon Grain Co. Mill. The signal will be of the standard swinging type, such as is used at all heavy traffic crossings. The city officials and other interested persons have been endeavoring for some time to have the signal placed and the S. P. Co. have finally consented to have the same placed.

Have your envelopes printed with your return address. The Tribune can do the work.

FARM REMINDERS

Well kept and analyzed farm accounts enable farmers to locate the weak spots and reject enterprises and practices where necessary to increase the income. That Oregon farmers are becoming more interested in farm accounting is shown by the fact that completed records for the year from Umatilla, Crook, Deschutes, Morrow, Polk and Clackamas counties have been turned in to the farm management department of the state college. On some farms the entire business has been found to need reorganization.

Small white insects found on house plants in Oregon are controlled by spraying, says the experiment station, entomologist. These insects are green-house white flies. A spray, 14 ounces of whale oil soap to 1 gallon of water is satisfactory. This kills the insects by contact, so several applications at weekly intervals are necessary.

Garden slugs are controlled in Oregon by a combination spray and poison bait, says the experiment station. Plants are first covered with a Bordeaux spray of 4-4-50 strength. Bait made of 1 ounce of calcium arsenate, mixed with 1 pound of chopped lettuce leaves, is scattered around infested plants in small heaps. Cutworm poison bran mash, with arsenate as the poison, is of nearly equal value.

Farmers who have greenhouses and hotbed facilities have already made sowings of early cabbage and lettuce. The varieties favored are Golden Acre or Early Copenhagen Market and New York respectively. Plant growing greenhouse are now beginning to function as the growers wish to transplant to the field as soon as the soil and weather conditions will permit, an average date in western Oregon being about March 15 to 20.

The slack winter season is the time for cleaning seed grain, repairing of farm machinery by replacing worn parts and applying a new coat of paint, sharpening of sickles, blades, discs, plowshares, oiling and repairing of harness, so that when the spring work starts everything will be ready for an efficient summer's work, says the Oregon experiment station. Some Oregon farmer find that clipping and filing away good farm pointers, hints on repairing of machinery, suggestions that will come in handy during the year's work is time and effort well spent. This year Oregon honey is poorer in quality and less in quantity than in past years, finds the experiment station. Growers who find their honey dark and strong may get some white eastern Oregon alfalfa honey to mix
