

THE TURNER TRIBUNE

Turner, Oregon, Thursday April 18, 1929

F. J. Kauling, Editor

Issued Every Thursday at Turner, Marion County, Oregon

SUBSCRIPTION $1.25 PER YEAR. Entered at the Postoffice at Turner, Oregon, as second-class matter, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States and the country for which it stands. One nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Community Development

Our attention was called, recently, to an article in the Oregon Statesman regarding the development of rural communities and the part taken by the local newspapers in this development. It is very interesting to read and contains much food for reflection. This article will be found on page 10 of the issue of April 9th. It relates the effort made by these papers for community development. We don't know who the author of this article is but it is certainly worth reading. Regarding the Tribune the writer says, "He (meaning the editor) has been instrumental in getting a macadamized road built from Turner west to the Pacific highway south of Salem, which is paved through Minto pass to Eastern Oregon." The above is slightly overdrawn. We do not claim the honor, entirely, of getting the Cloverdale road designated as a market road. At the time the question of a market road connecting the Salem-Mill City road with the main highway was before the people the Salem Chamber of Commerce were set on the Battle Creek route. They began by placing the signs, directing people to the highway, at the intersection of Battle Creek road at the north limits of the City of Turner. This, then, was the beginning of the agitation for a market road for this section. The Salem Chamber of Commerce still held for the Battle Creek route. We contended that according to the market road law the road should go where it would benefit the greatest number of farmers. The Battle Creek road had practically no feeders leading into it compared with the Cloverdale route, which is the outlet of large agricultural and horticultural districts. Another large item was the cost of construction. The Battle Creek road is a succession of hills, while on the route selected there was only one hill and that not steep. We went to the bat with Mr. Brady, then editor of the Statesman. He informed us that they, meaning members of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, had gone over both roads and had decided that the Battle Creek road was the best adapted to the purposes of a market road. If our memory serves us right, we informed Mr. Brady that if they made that decision they must have gone over the road blindfolded. We took the matter before the public editorially and otherwise. Finally the road was built, and is now designated as a market road. As far as to whom the honor is due we are not worrying about that. We were all working together and the road is built and established as a market road. As far as the road through the Minto pass to Eastern Oregon is concerned that is only open to Detroit and paved only to Mehama. While this road is not yet built, we understand it has the approval of the government engineers and the U. S. Forest Service and the solid backing of Marion county and a large part of the state as far north as Portland. We have strong faith that this road will be built and not many years hence.

The Big Ones Don't All Get Away

The Portland Daily News of April 12 carried a short but timely editorial under the above heading referring to the imprisonment of Harry F. Sinclair, of Teapot Dome fame. We quote the editorial from the News as follows:

"Harry Sinclair is going to jail. The king of the oil realm will serve 90 days in jail for defying the United States senate. Sinclair is not going to jail for gobbling up the Tea Pot reserves that belonged to the United States navy. He is going to jail for the Continental oil deal. He is not paying any penalty for the downfall of former Secretary of the Interior Fall. Not for the oil affair is Sinclair going to do his bit of time. But for refusing to answer questions asked him by a committee of the Senate.

Look over the list; Fall got away. Doheny got away, and Sinclair and Blackmer—in the oil affair.

The Portland News hopes that Sinclair has a pleasant stay in jail. At least, he shattered one precedent. The Big Ones do not all get away all the time.

Harry Sinclair was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail in Washington D. C. for refusing to answer the question put to him by the special investigating committee from the United States senate that was probing the Teapot Dome scandal. He is getting off light. He should be doing time for his participation in the Teapot Dome deal but thanks to Senator Walsh, of Montana, who started the investigation, he got a little taste of what he had coming to him.

REV. HALLOCK WRITES OF CHINESE NEW YEAR

C.P.O. Box 1234, Shanghai, China, Feb. 15, 1929.

Dear Editor:

We are in the midst of the Chinese big feast—Chinese New Year. Everyone's birthday comes on this day. Should a child be born in even the last hour of the last day of the old year it would be two years old on New Year. New Year came on Sunday, February 10. Every store was closed. All work stopped. But it was not quiet! It was like many Fourth of July's in one. Oh! the firecrackers! At midnight I was awakened by a vast broadside of large and small firecrackers and they kept it up for days. In the morning the ground was covered as by red snow—the "confetti" of exploded fireworks. Firecrackers are but a part of the feast—the noisy part.

The last day of the year everybody is busy—the men at closing up their accounts. All bills must be collected and all debts paid. We be to the man who does not pay his debts. The women are very busy. The house must be made as clean as a pin and decorated, and the brooms hidden—bad luck if they appear on New Year. Before the New Year sun rises all kinds of food must be gotten ready! Guests—many—will come during these days and they must be feasted. Few people see slumber the last night of the old year. But when the sun rises, calm reigns over the household. As one walks out between 5 and 9 a. m. the whole town is asleep. Sunday indeed! But excitement arouses them and about 10 o'clock you'll find the streets alive with people dressed in their best "bin and tucker" and you hear "Kong Hui Fah-izai!"—"Congratulations and abounding wealth to you!"—shouted from one to another. The closed doors are plastered with appropriate sayings written on blood-red strips of paper. Go to open spaces of the city and see crowds encircling puppet shows, acrobats, monkey performers, squirming dragons, entertainers of all kinds, and peddlers of sweets and children's toys—Vanity Fair! Go to the temples and you find thousands burning incense and candles before all the idols, praying for wealth, old age and bliss.

One interesting god connected with the New Year is the god-of-wealth which is worshipped especially on the 5th—his birthday. The money spent on firecrackers in his honor would pay China's national debt. Few begin work again until he is properly worshipped. Another is the kitchen-god. He is a paper god and sits over the stove in the kitchen where he spies on the doings of the family for a year. On the 23rd of the twelfth month he is given a big feast. Sweet syrup is put on his mouth and he is put in a beautiful paper sedan chair and burned in glorious style, accompanied by fireworks—which is sending him to the upper-god to report on their year's doings—all this fuss and sweetness is to bribe him to speak well of their family to his majesty. When he returns on the last night of the old year—a new idol is bought and placed with little ceremony—in the old niche—it will be a year before he reports again—why "tuffy" him now?

Next to idol-worship gambling takes a big place in New Year celebrations—gambling everywhere! What they eat and drink, and the firecrackers, and gambling, all, in some way or other, symbolize or point to the sound "Kao-sen"—excession! in the sense of rising high in wealth and station—especially in wealth. It's indeed a wonderfully interesting time, and is indulged in even by beggars—for they receive a harvest of alms.

The Nationalist government ordered that Chinese New Year should not be observed this year. It might as well have tried to turn back the greatest tidal wave of history! National commands stop the observance of Chinese New Year's customs? Only the conversion of these people to Christ will stop this idol worship and lead to the worship of the true God. And to us the glad part of it is that each year more leave the false and adopt the true as the Chinese one by one are born anew. We are not discouraged. Pray much for China. Kindest regards and best wishes.

Yours in Christ's glad service.

(REV.) H. G. C. HALLOCK.

P. S.—Enclosed is a Chinese kitchen-god.

DELZELS ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Delzell entertained a party of young folks in honor of the 18th birthday of their daughter, Faustina. About forty of the young lady's friends gathered to help here celebrate this important occasion. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and music. Music for the occasion was furnished by an eight-piece orchestra. Bowls of Japanese quince and yellow daffodils were arranged around the room and on the table. Dainty refreshments were served.

WORTHY GRAND MATRON VISITS STAYTON CHAPTER

The worthy grand matron of the Order of the Eastern Star, of Oregon, paid her official visit to this district, which includes the chapters at Silverton, Mill City, Stayton and Turner, Tuesday night. The meeting was held at Stayton as being nearest to the central point for all lodges to attend. Turner, being the nearest, went to Stayton early to assist in arranging the hall.

Harrison's Store Undergoing Repairs

The Harrison General Store, formerly operated by I. L. Robertson, is being renovated and remodeled. It is being painted on the inside and the old heavy columned railing around the balcony has been removed and a new neat railing placed in its stead. Other improvements planned are painting the outside and rebuilding the old warehouse on the alley and joining it on to the rear of the store. After this work is completed you will find here a well selected stock found in any general store including a stock of rope, nails and oils.

PORTLAND-DAMASCUS CO ENLARGE PLANT

The Portland-Damascus Milk Co. have commenced extensive improvements on their Turner plant. About two years ago an entirely new plant was erected in Turner. It was small but modern in every way. At that time the company were handling cream alone. The first of this year they began the handling of whole milk. They began with one route and have increased to four and are using two trucks to haul the milk and cream to Portland. The addition that is being added will practically double the capacity of the plant and will be equipped with new machinery including a new boiler. George Morell, field manager for the company has charge of operations in the Turner territory and C. W. Hewitt is plant superintendent.
