Takes Another Job

Mussolini now has in hand personal censorship of Italy's news paper advertisements and all the hair in at least one Italian newspaper's business office is standing on end like quills upon the fretful hedgehog.

What made Benito mad, in this instance, was the picture in the advertisement of an insecticide that showed an Italian soldier, in full uniform, undergoing treatment for insects. "It's an offense to the prestige and dignity of the Italian soldier. Cut it out!" orders the dictator. It's out!

It shows that Mussolini still has gleams of democracy. A common soldier is just as much entitled to prestige and dignity as anybody else. Publicity of the picture of a senator, or a judge, or a general being defoused certainly would raise a howl, wouldn't it? — Portland Daily News.

Dumping Laws on Them

Now in force are 891 brand new California laws. There is little risk in saying that not 10 per cent of Californians have any idea as to what 10 per cent of these new laws are. Yet, ignorance of law is not a good excuse for violation thereof.

The multiplicity of law accounts for the fact that, frequently, it is impossible to get a direct answer, a yes or no, on a point of law from lawyers. Often your lawyer has to consult his book for his answer, and gets one that you could have procured, yourself! His advantage lies, largely, in knowing where to look for it. Also too many laws may account for some of the disrespect of law.

However, 891 new laws ought to promote increase in the law business. — Portland Daily News.

Champoeg Memorial

A great neighborhood meeting was held recently at Champoeg park for the purpose of discussing the project of placing a suitable memorial building on this historical ground. It has been suggested that Congress be asked again to appropriate money for the purpose in the grounds that the famous Champoeg convention decided the government and nationality of not only Oregon but the entire west coast. There is no question but what Champoeg has a just claim to the honors of a national park. It would seem more fitting for Oregon to plan this memorial independent of the national government. What would be more fitting than for Oregon to honor her founders by erecting a memorial to the pioneers who had all to do with deciding the fate of Oregon and holding it for a territory in the United States in place of a province of Great Britain.

The Portland Telegram offers the following suggestion: "It might be a reproduction of some frontier fort or block house, a replica of a pioneer settlement, or of the curious community dwellings that were built and used by the Indians before the white man came."

There are many descendants of these pioneer makers of history still living in Oregon and Washington which was then a part of Oregon territory. One man, Francis Xavier Matthieu, who died a few years ago, in Portland, was said to be the man whose vote decided Oregon for the Union. The famous meeting was just as important for the State of Washington as for Oregon, from an historical standpoint. Why not come to an agreement with our sister state and establish a joint memorial at the historic site of this famous convention and hold the honors on the Pacific coast where they belong.

Turner Man In Auto Accident

The new Ford truck belonging to the Turner Lumber and Manufacturing Company and a sedan driven by Mr. Compton of Salem collided in front of the C. P. Rodgers home on the Pringle road Thursday afternoon. There were no passengers in either car. Mr. Compton sustained slight injuries.

The collision occurred when Compton shot into the road from Rodgers farm in front of Martin when he was going about 30 miles per hour toward Turner. Martin applied the brakes as soon as he saw Compton but was unable to avoid a collision. The front end of the truck was badly damaged and the drivers side of the sedan was considerably damaged with a large amount of glass scattered over the road. Both cars landed in the ditch.

Deer Law Changed

While the opening of deer hunting season on September 15 sportsmen will be called to observe a change in the limit laws. Each hunter will be allowed but one mule deer and one black tail or two black tails. Reports indicate that deer will be more plentiful in all sections of the state than they have been for years. Heavy inroads made upon cougar have in no small degree been responsible for this increase of deer.

Elk Lake Closed To Fishermen

A small worm has taken a heavy toll of fish in Elk Lake, near Bend and caused the state game commission to close the lake to fishermen. This is the first time in the history of the commission that such a worm has been discovered. According to Matt Ryckman, superintendent of hatcheries, who has made an investigation, the worm is about one-half inch in length and attacks the internal organs of trout causing death. Many fish have been found upon the shores of the lake and the commission has collected and burned them. Every possible effort will be made to keep the parasite from spreading to other lakes or streams.

Twin R. U. Entries Coming Good

Albany, Oregon, August 00 (Special), Entries in this city's annual twin round-up, which will be held on Labor Day, are coming in rapidly. They have already reached the number that were registered a year ago and more of them are coming in daily.

Coo's Bay district has the distinction of furnishing the most entries of any one community. It entered 31 pairs of twins in one day and since then several other sets have registered.

Mrs. Mamie York is coming from Oakland, California, to appear with her sister, Mrs. Ellen Mortan of Crabtree, Mrs. Mortan's twin children, Wilfred and Delbert, will also enter.

Five year old twins of Mrs. Adaine Heine, Portland, who have acrobatic inclinations, have entered and they will doubtless have a chance to show their stuff as the committee is offering prizes for inter-twin contests.

Mayors of Oregon cities will put on an interesting competition in the morning for a $20 prize offered by the round-up committee to the city that will stage the best 15 to 20 minute program. Acceptances have been received from Eugene, Salem, Corvallis, Lebanon and Brownsville and several more are expected in a few days.

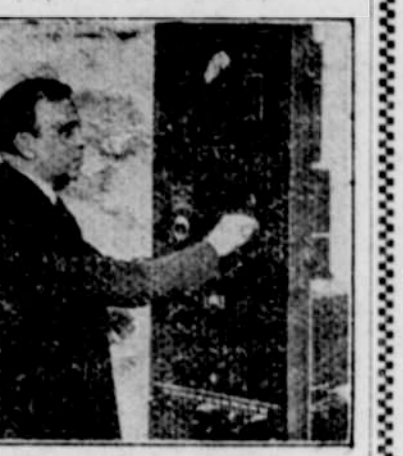

Besides the motor boat races and inter-twins competitions, there will be a bathing beauty contest, an amateur horseshoe tournament and other sports.

Have your envelopes printed with your return address. The Tribune can do the work.

CENTRALIZED RADIO HELPS IN TEACHING

The New Unit Takes Programs to School Rooms and to Hotel Guests.

Guests in hotels today are turning on a radio program in their rooms as easily as they switch on the electric light, pupils in schools are listening to valuable lectures given far away, and tenants in thoroughly modern apartments are connecting their receiving sets as easily as they connect their electric irons by use of one of the newest and most interesting radio developments. "Centralized radio" sprang into wide use immediately with its recent introduction by the Radio Corporation of America, whose engineers perfected it.

Principal of Oyster Bay, Long Island, school operating centralized radio.

This type of centralized radio, known as audio frequency, is not to be confused with the conventional radio receiver and amplifier connected with scattered loudspeakers or headphones. Reception with the new audio frequency is as perfect in every room as if an excellent radio receiving set were placed there. The RCA audio centralized equipment takes the form of the necessary units mounted in standard switch-board fashion, one receiver with amplifying, distributing and outlet equipment constituting one channel, required for the reception and distribution of one program. As many as four channels, giving the listener a choice of any one of four programs, may be mounted on the central switch-board. The equipment is operated from the usual electric lighting circuit. The receiver for each channel is tuned to a given station and the tuning dials locked in position to prevent dialing. A time clock switch may be set to start the programs at any designated hour and to turn them off. The centralize equipment may be placed beside the telephone switchboard, behind the desk in a hotel, in the office of a hospital superintendent, in the office of a school's principal or any place that is convenient. Phonograph records may be played in the absence of programs.

The other type of centralized radio meets the different problem of persons who desire to use their own receiving sets in apartment buildings. It is known as radio frequency and does away with the necessity for unsightly roof antennae and lead-ins on the walls of modern buildings. It is not a mere lead-in, but is strictly a radio frequency transmission line which does not pick up additional signals or interference. One efficient antenna some 50 to 75 feet above the roof takes care of all, so that tenants merely have to plug in their radio receiving sets on a wall socket. A large percentage of the best type of big apartments now are being equipped in this way.

FLEEING MAN CAUGHT BY A RADIO PICTURE

Constantino Queruben has a chance today to share a certain pride with the old crook character in Bayard Veiller's famous play, "Within the Law," in that he introduced a new era in criminal history. Veiller's character boasted that he was the first man to use a Maxim silencer in shooting his victim. Queruben was the first man captured by detectives by means of a radio photograph. The chase after which Queruben is being taken back to New York to face charges of swindling and forgery extended over 5,500 miles and ended in Honolulu harbor. The sleepy Filipino was roused from his berth at 5 o'clock on a recent morning and identified positively by a facsimile radio photograph, taken from an original in the files of the Bureau of Information in New York Police Headquarters and projected 2,500 miles across the Pacific Ocean by the Radio Corporation of America.

IT'S OUR HOME TOWN AND WE LIKE IT

SOMEONE once said something about his town which we think applies with particular meaning to our home town. We won't change a word for it suits us just as it stands. "There are fancier towns than our little town, there are towns that are bigger than this, while the people who live in the smaller towns don't know the excitement they miss. "There are things you see in the wealthier towns that you can't see in the town that's small; and yet, up and down, there's no other town after all. "It may be that the streets aren't long, they're not wide and maybe not straight, but the neighbors you know in your little town all welcome a fellow—it's great. "In the glittering streets of the glittering towns with palaces pavement and thrall, in the midst of the throng you will frequently long for your own town after all. "If you live and you work in your own little town, in spite of the fact that it's small, you'll find it a fact that our own home town is the best little town after all." We believe in our town and have a lot of faith in our fellow townsmen. We want our paper to be your home town paper and all that it implies. Old Timer Visits Turner

Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Small were agreeably surprised a few days ago by a visit from W. H. Dunbar, of Edmonds, Washington. Mr. Dunbar was at one time one of Turner's leading citizens. He was bookkeeper and assistant manager for the old Oregon Milling Company at the time when they were at the peak of their business in Turner. Mr. Dunbar was in Salem attending the Kiwanis convention and could not forego opportunity of his early days in Oregon. He is now engaged in the real estate business in Edmonds, a thriving suburb of Seattle.
